

Hong Kong Vets To Get $1,400 Prisoner Pay

1,400 Mistreated Captives of Japanese
To Get $1 a Day; 600 Others Share

OTTAWA, Oct. 10 (CP)—The government today announced an immediate $1-a-day maltreatment award to roughly 2,000 Canadians for each day they were enemy prisoners in the Second World War.

The awards do not affect the great majority of Canadian prisoners-of-war who fell into German hands. They go mainly to about 1,400 survivors of the Hong Kong siege of 1941 who will get cheques of $1,350 to $1,400 within the next few weeks.

(What Victoria war prisoners will do with their bonus cheques is told in story on Page 15.)

They embrace the Hong Kong survivors, Canadian civilians interned by the Japanese and relatively few Canadians who were imprisoned by Nazi organizations such as the Gestapo and S.S.

The money will come out of a $10,000,000 fund built up of seized German and Japanese assets and reparations from those countries.

Prime Minister St. Laurent, in announcing the awards, said a commission will shortly be set up to rule on other claims by Canadians.

These are expected to number in the thousands. They range from claims for losses of property in such tragedies as the 1939 sinking of the liner Athenia to claims by civilians imprisoned by the Japanese who have spent their own money regaining their health in hospital and under medical care since being returned to Canada.

Widows of Hong Kong veterans who died in prison camp or since being returned to Canada will have a right to claim. Some may get the full $1,350 to $1,400 their husbands would have got. Others, now drawing pension, would get less.

Those who were held in regular German P.O.W. camps will be able to claim excessive maltreatment awards, if their claims are upheld, will be entitled to some reimbursement too.

An example here might be a survivor of the 1942 Dieppe raid who suffered from being shackled by the Germans for some time after being taken prisoner.

Recommendations have been accepted with a few modifications.

He said the government accepts the proposal that another commission be named to investigate and recommend on payment of awards of other Canadians who have presented war claims.

"Appointment of a chief commissioner to carry out this complicated and onerous task will be made at an early date."

The Hong Kong army group—remnants of the two-battalion detachment sent to the Pacific island in 1941—is believed to be the only large single group to benefit from today's announcement of $1-a-day awards.

However, numerous other Canadians would be affected, priests and other civilians caught in the Far East, airmen shot down in warfare with the Japanese, some Belsen and Buchenwald.

No exact estimate of their numbers was available.

VICE-REGENT NO BETTER; MAY BE HOSPITALIZED

CALGARY, Oct. 10 (CP)—Governor-General Vincent Massey today was reported "no better than he was last night."

The report came from Dr. E. P. Scarlett of Calgary who is attending the Governor-General aboard the vice-regal party's private train.

Mr. Massey suffered a severe chill Thursday and was forced to cancel one day of a two-day visit to Calgary.

It was reported unofficially today that the Governor-General might be taken to Calgary's Holy Cross Hospital for a check-up.

It was hoped Mr. Massey would be able to keep this appointment Saturday.

Victoria citizens who wish to be presented to Governor-General Vincent Massey will have the opportunity during his one-day visit here Oct. 15.

Following his welcome by Premier W. A. C. Bennett at the Legislative Buildings, he will receive the general public. Public entrance will be through the east door of the buildings, opposite the museum entrance, and the reception will be from 3.45 to 4.35 p.m.

JUDGE JUSTIFIES CONTEMPT CHARGE

Chief Justice Farris' Action Defended
In Judge Bird's Finding in Poje Case

Chief Justice Wendell B. Farris, of B.C.'s Supreme Court, was perfectly within his right to proceed with contempt of court proceedings against Tony Poje and other I.W.A. members who ignored a court injunction order to cease picketing of the Nanaimo Assembly Wharf, during the summer lumber strike.

This is the view of Mr. Justice H. I. Bird, of B.C. Appeal Court, who, with Mr. Justice Sidney Smith, turned down an appeal by I.W.A. counsel to have Chief Justice Farris's judgment set aside, and his conviction of Poje and 14 others quashed.

Mr. Justice Bird took a different view from Mr. Justice C. H. O'Halloran, who dissented from the majority decision. Justice O'Halloran's reasons were published Thursday. He held the Chief Justice should not have proceeded with the contempt charges.

Mr. Justice Bird, however, said of the Chief Justice:

THE CAINE MUTINY

Best Selling Novel
To Appear in Times

By special arrangement with the Doubleday syndicate of New York, the Victoria Daily Times has secured first newspaper rights, exclusive in this area, to the best-selling novel "The Caine Mutiny," by Herman Wouk.

The vivid navy story, which has been at the top of the New York Times' best-seller list for 77 straight weeks, will start running in The Times Saturday, October 18.

"The Caine Mutiny," which details the troubles of a destroyer-minesweeper's crew with a psychopathic captain, has been hailed as "the greatest navy story to come out of the Second World War." It has out-sold the fine British navy story, "The Cruel Sea."

HIGH HUMOR

"The Caine Mutiny" is a book of high humor, of biting satire, stirring action, and tender romance. Its chief protagonist is Willie Keith, a playboy who is made into a man in the stern testing-place of the Pacific war.

Author Wouk (pronounced Woke) at 37 has had a remarkable career. At Columbia University he edited the humor magazine, went on to become a comedy writer for Fred Allen for five years.

During sea service in the Pacific, he wrote "Aufera Dawn," which became a Book-of-the-Month choice in 1946. In 1948 came "City Boy," a Family Book Club choice. In the same year, Wouk wrote "Slattery's Hurricane," a story of Navy weather fliers, which was made into a movie.

In 1949 his play "The Traitor" was produced on Broadway with Lee Tracy and Walter Hampden. At present he is working on another play, "Modern Primitive," and an untitled novel, a love story set in Manhattan.

PULITZER PRIZE

In 1952 the young author received the greatest accolade of all when "The Caine Mutiny" was awarded a Pulitzer Prize as "the most distinguished novel of the year."

An interesting sidelight is that Wouk proved, in his prize-winning novel, that a war book could be written without the profanity, service stories. His dialogue in "The Caine Mutiny" is realistic, and hard-hitting, but without smut. Wouk said before he wrote the novel that it could be done. He has more than proved his point, as 400,000 purchasers of the novel testify.

Fanatical Chinese Reds Fail to Stop Koreans

SEOUL, Korea, Oct. 10 (AP)—A human sea of fanatical Chinese Reds pushed South Korean soldiers off White Horse Mountain tonight but the weary U.N. troops scrambled right back to the top and battled the Reds hand to hand in a drenching rain.

The wild fighting broke off at 9 p.m. with the Chinese in control. The South Koreans hugged the south slope 150 yards from the top.

Earlier reports said a "hilltop brawl" swirled around the peak in almost pitch darkness. Reds and South Koreans fought it out with grenades, rifle butts and bayonets.

It was the seventh time today that savage close-in fighting has swept across the rubble-crest of the vital peak.

A pelting rain started just after dark. It soaked the weary soldiers who have been fighting continuously more than four days.

A front-line officer said it was so dark on the crest that the Republic of Korea troops had to grope their way forward to close with the Reds.

He said the South Koreans had one simple rule for fighting in the dark: If they felt a shaved head in the hand-to-hand fighting they knew it must belong to a Chinese. That was all the identification they wanted.

BIG GUNS SILENT

The officer said the only sounds from the hilltop were "the screams when someone is killed and the moans of the wounded." Because of the darkness, the big guns of both sides were silent.

The South Koreans launched their attack from a line about 100 yards below the crest at 8.30 p.m. They apparently ran head-on into the Chinese, who were pushing their way slowly forward.

The South Koreans stormed back to the crest less than two hours after a fresh battalion (about 750) of screaming Chinese drove them from the top to the base of the hill mass.

The Chinese surged forward in a human sea attack. The officer said they "stormed the north slope with bayonets, fists, grenades and dirty words."

The Reds regrouped and moved back up the southern slope behind the protective curtain of a roaring Allied artillery barrage. About 100 yards from the top they established a defense line at 7.30 p.m. One hour later they closed back to the crest.

The Allied Caterers' Association of B.C. (representing Georgia, Ritz, Vancouver and Sylvia Court Hotels of Vancouver, the Empress of Victoria and Purdy's, White Spot and Barn restaurants) added its voice.

The restaurant association pointed out that hotels and cabarets are in direct competition to restaurants and the government will be in the position "of giving grossly unfair competitive advantage to one class of business against another" unless restaurants are permitted to apply for licenses.

"In some jurisdictions a situation has developed where lavish entertainment is staged in restaurants and cocktail bars as a competitive lure to draw increased liquor trade," said the B.C. division of the Canadian Restaurant Association.

"We feel that where this is allowed it interferes drastically with the important principle of primary emphasis being retained on the service of food."

Absent Citizens Send Red Feather Donations

Contributions are still arriving from outside points for Victoria's 1952 Red Feather drive, campaign headquarters announced today.

A $50 cheque with a message saying "I wish it was more but can't afford not to give" was received from Frances A. A. March, Val Morin, Quebec. A Victorian, A. E. Longmore, who will be away from the city for three months, sent $35 from Swift Current, Sask.

There was $4 from "two old women who wish it was more" and a cent each from two children whose allowances are five cents per week.

ON THE TIMES

By ART STOTT

When the owner of the small inboard boat called the little guy aft and told him to take the tiller, you couldn't see the little guy's chest swell. You knew, though, from the look on his face, that he'd found a new pride.

For a while at least he was skipper. You felt his sense of importance. It showed in the tight line of his mouth, the concentration wrinkles around his eyes, and the way he tried to hide the grin of pleasure responsibility had given him.

You knew he was a little scared, being strictly a small lake sailor, when the rollers from a passing steamer pushed up ahead and looked like mountains of water to him. And you heard the reassuring voice of the boat owner telling him to quarter into the waves and that he'd be all right.

You watched him fighting down a mild panic when the boat swung into the tide and started to lose headway. Then you saw his confidence restored as the owner told him how to angle out of the rip.

You appreciated his anxiety on the homeward leg when he wanted one of the older people to steer in past the rocks that lie close under the surface and when he protested, a little shrilly, that he didn't know where they were. And you recognized the tension he was under when the boat owner told him that he'd never learn any younger.

So when he slipped away, after landing, without thanking the owner for the ride, you didn't call him back. You knew he was just a little too full of the importance of having been pilot, and you figured he was heading for the house to tell his mother with an assumed self-assurance that he'd handled the boat out in the rip.

It Happened Before

You knew these things because they had all happened before when you were a kid. You knew that soaring exaltation that comes to a youngster when he's pushed a boat through lumpy water that frightened him. You knew how important it was for a kid to be one of the men, hiding fear and concealing pride in being accepted as a boatman. And you knew you shouldn't praise him beyond saying, "You did all right out there, son."

Maybe, if you gave it a second thought, you might have wondered if that wouldn't be a good technique for raising youngsters in other spheres. It might teach them to accept responsibilities as they came along, looking for no more than a brief acknowledgment for a job they did satisfactorily.

You'd feel that way if you were doubtful of the theory that youngsters should be praised for doing the right thing, but not necessarily punished for doing the wrong. You might even ask yourself why proper behaviour justified anything more than acceptance, why so many people should think it called for a special reward. You'd exaggerate the theory to ask why a youngster should be given a popside just because he gave his seat in the bus to an old lady.

Technique Worth Copying

If you like the way the boat-owner handled the little guy at the tiller, you might go a little further in theorizing on the training values of a quiet approach. The boat-owner, who was doing his own job of teaching, didn't minimize the responsibilities he gave the youngster. He figured the boy was bright enough to know he had a job to do—and he figured, too, that the kid could become pretty excited and unreliable if his imagination were stirred too much. So he took it slowly and calmly, explaining what had to be done and letting the little guy beat back his own fears and indecisions.

You noticed how it worked on the youngster. It was important to him not to blow his top, not to act like a kid. He accepted that point of view and with nobody apparently worrying about his competency, he didn't waste too much time worrying himself.

When he'd brought the boat in, he realized he'd taught himself something. He knew that it would be a little easier to handle the job the next time. And he had his own quiet satisfaction in proving to him some capacities of which he had been doubtful. If he didn't need a brass band to proclaim his triumph, he didn't even need an extra slice of pie as a reward for doing what had been expected of him.

Somehow you felt he'd learned a lot more from the experience than the simple rudiments of steering a boat in open water. He'd built in himself a stronger sense of sureness, and you thought, perhaps, it would help him not only to meet other challenges in future, but to accept criticism when it was due without feeling too deeply injured.

POJE DECISION

think made it abundantly clear that the court was then concerned with an apparent deliberate affront to the authority and prestige of the court, arising from the alleged actions and conduct of certain officers and members of, as well as pickets employed by, the union.

"The question then arises whether in view of the incidents related by the sheriff it was open to the court to proceed of its own motion to investigate the alleged contempt.

"Here there was shown to have been an open defiance of the court's order of July 15, 1952, accompanied by very considerable publicity, by persons who were parties defendant to the action, either personally named as such, or as represented by the named defendants. . . . The effect of their conduct in the public mind cannot, I think, have been regarded as other than a challenge to the authority of the court, and carried the implied assertion that the union and its members stood above the law.

"I think it is beyond question that in such circumstances the court had jurisdiction, with a view to the maintenance of its authority and prestige, to cite such offenders to show cause why they should not be committed for contempt. . . .

"Here, in my opinion, there was no impropriety in the proceedings directed to be taken by the court, such as is alleged.

"It is true that no formal charge was preferred against these appellants, nor was formal notice of the alleged contempt given to them prior to the issue of the writs of attachment, but in my opinion the appellants were in no sense prejudiced by the omission, nor did any miscarriage of justice result therefrom.

Commenting on the original injunction, issued by Mr. Justice J. V. Cline, Mr. Justice Bird answered appellant counsel's submission that the injunction was not sound by declaring:

"None of the questions raised in these submissions in my opinion go to the jurisdiction of a court which is a superior court of record, i.e., of general jurisdiction.

"Each of the grounds relied upon no doubt is proper matter for consideration upon an appeal from such an order when an appellate court, because of one or more of the alleged defects, might determine that the order could not be sustained; but that is far from saying that a party to an action or one acting in his interest, while the other stands unchallenged, may with impunity disobey or ignore that order because he or they consider it to be invalid.

"The order under review is that of a superior court of record, and is binding and conclusive on all the world until it is set aside, or varied on appeal.

"No such order may be treated as a nullity."

"The testimony of the sheriff in my opinion provides ample support for the recited comments made by the learned Chief Justice. . . .

"This evidence shows that soon after service had been made of the order of Cline J. on July 15, 1952, the picket line, consisting of approximately six men, therefor maintained by the union on and about the Nanaimo Assembly dock, instead of being withdrawn, was reinforced by the addition of more than 100 men under the leadership of the appellant Poje, that this appellant and the pickets then and on several subsequent occasions not only failed to obey the order of Cline J., but adopted a highly contemptuous attitude toward the sheriff when he made known to them the effect of that order, and over the ensuing six days persisted in maintaining a picket line."

"There can be no doubt in my opinion . . . that an appeal lies to this court from the order for committal."

"The fact that these persons are found to have deliberately disobeyed the order, makes them guilty of a civil contempt of court, but does not establish guilt of any crime," he concluded.

Poje is in prison, serving a three-month term as a result of Chief Justice Farris's decision in the case.

CONFUSIN' AND AMUSIN'

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., Oct. 10 (AP).—An Atlantic City policeman can't seem to remember it—but he gave himself a parking ticket.

This was discovered Thursday when the patrolman hurried to police headquarters and wanted to know why he had been summoned for overtime parking.

A check of the records showed that he had indeed been sent a ticket, and that it carried his license number plus his signature—as arresting officer.

The explanation was that he had unconsciously inserted his own license number on a ticket intended for another car.

Hydrogen fusion requires a temperature of 20,000,000 degrees Centigrade or more. Could you men create such an inferno? The answer came on July 16, 1945, with the world's first atomic bomb blast. Scientists estimated its heat at 50,000,000 degrees. An H-bomb trigger had been found.

To start the A-bomb's fission process there had been no need for such incredible heat conditions. Scientists had discovered that a given amount of uranium—called a "critical mass"—will explode automatically through a process resembling spontaneous combustion. In the A-bomb this was done by bringing together two given amounts of uranium to form a "critical mass."

Because the amount of uranium required for the fission process is fixed, the A-bomb's destructive potential is limited. In theory, however, there is almost no limit to the amount of hydrogen the uranium trigger could be made to ignite. As suggested above, the same trigger could be used as easily in a small H-bomb as in one with "powers beyond the dreams of scientific fiction."

EDITOR EXEMPTS SELF FROM PLEA TO AGED TO DROP DEAD

BRANTFORD, Ont., Oct. 10 (CP)—A 76-year-old Toronto magazine editor, who suggested earlier this week that all Canadians over 70 should drop dead as a patriotic gesture, Thursday offered an afterthought:

"Everybody but me."

E. K. Sandwell, editor emeritus of Saturday Night, told the Ontario Medical Association Thursday that he felt that not even the saving to the federal government in old-age pensions would justify his demise.

"I am quite satisfied in my own mind that I am worth $40 a month," he said, "and I appreciate the fact that the government also appears to consider me worth $40 a month. It may of course be some compensation for the fact that I was never able to qualify for the baby bonus."

SPOUSES MAY GET MUNICIPAL VOTE

Burnaby Wins Long Fight; U.B.C.M. Backs Rights of Wives, Husbands of House Owners

VERNON, Oct. 10 (CP)—Thousands of names may be added to municipal voters lists in B.C. soon, if the government concurs.

Burnaby's long fight for the wives or husbands of property owners to be given the vote has at last won as Union of B.C. Municipalities Thursday gave its backing.

Prepared to scrap again on this issue, Burnaby had the support of Ald. V. M. Johnson of North Vancouver, an active member of leading women's organizations. But the clincher was the statement that Vancouver and New Westminster are already doing it.

Clues Worth $13,000

TORONTO, Oct. 10 (CP)—A $13,000 reward was posted today by the R.C.M.P. for information leading to the recovery of $214,000 in gold bullion stolen three weeks ago from the airport at nearby Malton.

Solving of the mystery has been passed to the mounties by Canadian National Railways investigators and special detectives hired by insurance firms who have been unable to find any trace of either the thieves or the gold. Police officials said a Toronto gang of hijackers may have carted off the loot as it lay on a cargo truck awaiting shipment to Europe.

It was learned that in future thefts of gold in transit anywhere in Canada the R.C.M.P. will be asked to take charge immediately. "We feel certain the gold is still in this country and cached away," said R.C.M.P. Inspector J. S. Cruickshank. "We feel sure that certain people have information about this gold or members of the ring. Any information forwarded to us will be treated in strictest confidence."

It was learned that information obtained within the last week indicates that an international gold theft ring has its headquarters in Toronto and that its members have gone into hiding.

It was believed that members of the ring are in northern Ontario mining cities and in Montreal. Police said they have no information that the ring has agents in United States cities.

'RUN, MOMMY, RUN'

Powell River Child Tells of Ax-Beating

VANCOUVER, Oct. 10 (CP)—A pretty 13-year-old Powell River girl took the witness stand in a size court Thursday to testify against her own father who is charged with attempted murder.

She is Sandra Prudence Martin, who told the court how she watched her father, Charles Reginald Martin, 42, beat her mother with an axe and then slit his own throat.

"Then he lay down on the floor beside 'Mommy' and said: 'We'll both die together, Mommy,'" the child testified.

Her father, a Powell River stevedore, is charged with the attempted murder of her 40-year-old mother, Alma Gertrude Martin, April 29.

As she spoke in her squeaky voice of the events that led up to the charge her 14-year-old sister, Marilyn, sat in the court room listening intently to every word she said.

Her father, in the prisoner's box, looked upset and held his hand over his mouth throughout her testimony.

Sandra said she accompanied

FURNACE SHOOTS HOTEL JANITOR

VANCOUVER, Oct. 10 (CP)—A janitor Fred Seerup, ducked for cover when a shot rang out just after he lit the furnace in the Anchor Hotel here Thursday night.

Someone had thrown live cartridges down the garbage chute and Seerup unknowingly tossed them into the furnace.

Police extinguished the fire in the furnace and retrieved a number of live .303-calibre cartridges and one exploded one.

Seerup told police a piece of metal from an exploded shell went through his shirt pocket.

Flunkkey Runs Amok With Sten Gun In Earl of Derby's Home; 2 Dead

PRESCOT, Lancashire, Eng. (Reuters)—A 19-year-old valet to the wealthy Earl of Derby was charged with murder today after running amok with a machine-gun in his master's home Thursday night, killing two other servants and wounding Lady Derby as she dined alone.

Harold Winstanley stood in the dock in his shirt-sleeves as police told the story of his rampage about the stately Derby mansion, spraying the place with bullets.

The 34-year-old Earl was out for dinner and his wife, 32, was dining alone in the smoking room when Winstanley appeared at the door, they said. The Sten-gun stuttered and a bullet tore into the back of Lady Derby's neck.

Roving through the 400-year-old house, he pumped burst into butler Walter Stallard and under-butler Douglas Stewart, killing them both, wounded valet William Sullivan in the hand and hit a chef on the head.

Chief Superintendent W. J. Woolf said Winstanley admitted the shooting. He was remanded until Oct. 17.

Police could give no motive for Winstanley's actions.

KIDNEY ACIDS Rob your Rest..

Many people never seem to get a good night's rest. They turn and toss—blame it on "nerves"—when it may be their kidneys. Healthy kidneys filter poisons and excess acids from the blood. If they fail and impurities stay in the system—disturbed rest often follows. If you don't rest well get and use Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's help the kidneys so that you can rest better—and feel better.

when we say this radio has three things you really want

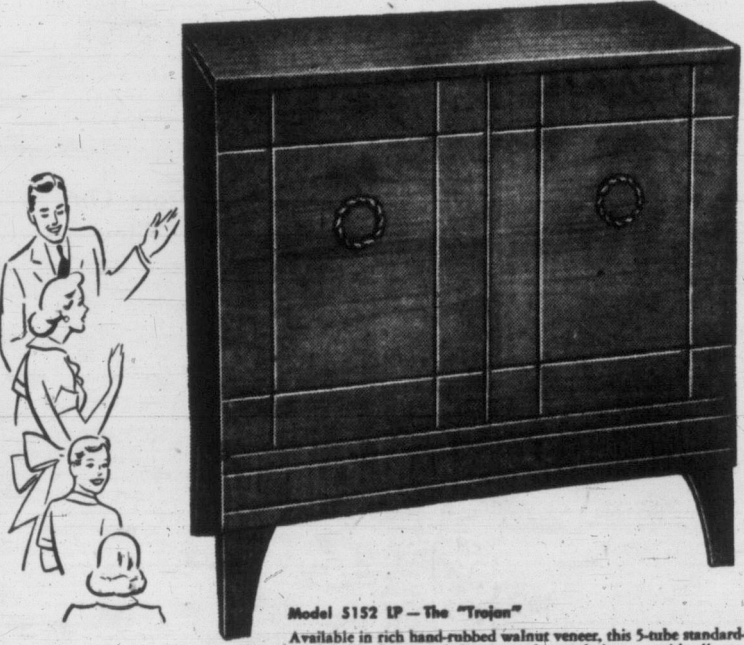

If you buy a radio for tone, look no further. For Sparton tone... recognized for over a quarter of a century as "Radio's Richest Voice"... brings you a depth and height of tone values that will give you full appreciation of your favourite artists through both radio reception and record reproduction.

If you buy a radio for styling, look no further. For Sparton has quality in every line... the same quality of cabinet design and finish that has placed Sparton at the top with interior decorators.

And, if it's value you're looking for, look just a little beyond the price tag and you'll see many reasons why Sparton value extends far beyond initial price... long-term value that can only be described by the word "quality". Sparton has consistently refused to sacrifice quality for the mere purpose of meeting price competition.

Your Sparton Dealer will be pleased to show you the new Spartons today.

A Recess in the Lull

UNITED NATIONS NEGOTIATORS have not ended the truce talks at Panmunjom. But they have called a "recess" and in the opinion of observers close to the scene it is likely to last for a long time.

The truce talks were inaugurated in July, 1951, as a measure which it was hoped would speedily bring the Korean fighting to a close. They have continued, in meetings long and short, stormy and quiet, to the point where they are frequently referred to as the "Panmunjom farce."

It has been apparently well established over the months that the Communists have no intention of achieving peace. As a platform for propaganda, yes. As a medium for the delivery of messages and warnings, yes. But not for any real effort to stop the struggle that is devastating the Korean peninsula and costing lives and treasure on both sides.

The present deadlock hinges on repatriation of Korean and Chinese prisoners held by the United Nations. The Reds demand the return of both military and civilian prisoners. The Allies, however, on the basis of information received from screening the prisoners themselves, view the proposed surrender of these men and women to the Communists as the betrayal of a trust.

Thousands of the P.O.W.'s have crossed the lines as the result of U.N. invitations to lay down their arms and receive good treatment. Others have risked their lives to make the perilous passage across No-Man's land and find refuge behind the prisoners' stockades. To return these men to the tender mercies of Communist authorities, say the Allies, would be impossible.

The U.N. spokesmen have offered several alternative methods of dealing with the problem, each holding fast on the essential point that the prisoners must have free choice as to whether they shall be returned to their homes or remain in non-Communist territory. The Communists have rejected all of them and there the matter stands.

There can be no doubt that Moscow and Peking were appalled at the number of Koreans and Chinese who told screening officials they had no desire to return to Communist jurisdiction. Some of the Allied proposals have been designed to save face for the Reds on that score, in hopes that this would remove their objections. It would strike a heavy blow at Communist propaganda at home if the fact received official recognition that so many thousands preferred life under the democracies.

The elaborate Communist facade on the Korean war—that this is a fight of patriotic Koreans against American imperialists intent on their enslavement—would crumble before such a disclosure.

Meanwhile the war drags on and the fighting is reported to be increasing in scope after a comparative lull. By many the original facts of the war must by now have been forgotten. How North Korean forces on June 25, 1950, surged over the border and put unprepared South Korean troops to flight. How partially trained American forces were rushed over from Japan. How they were pushed in retreat into a small Pusan beach-head which later reinforcements of American, British, French, Turkish, Australian and Canadian troops expanded. How the border between the two Koreas was reached and passed, and how United Nations forces pushed far northward to the Yalu River, near the Chinese frontier. Then how Chinese forces entered the fight, and Chinese-based planes rose to combat American raids. And finally the unofficial truce, which saw the lines more or less stabilized on the Korean dividing line.

Prospects now are for a long and indeterminate struggle with no clear-cut victory in sight. The "recess" at Panmunjom would appear to have neither increased nor lessened the hope of peace.

A Landmark in the War on Cancer

VISITORS TO THE "OPEN House" of the British Columbia Cancer Institute in Vancouver Thursday will have seen one of the finest centres of its kind in Canada. Functional in design, admirably conceived and executed, the new building near General Hospital boasts the most modern equipment—including Canada's third Cobalt "bomb"—available for treatment of the dread disease.

In the words of Dr. Fritz Strong, president of the B.C. Cancer Foundation, the new Institute represents all that is best in co-operation between private enterprise and government. The $700,000 cost of the building was borne by private bequests and gifts. Grants-in-aid from the Federal and Provincial governments, through Federal Health grants, are available for purchase of new equipment.

One-fifth of operating expenses are realized from private patients' fees, the balance divided between Federal and Provincial governments.

Opening of the new Institute represents the culmination of 17 years of planning by a group of doctors who met in 1935, alarmed at the incidence of cancer in British Columbia. Out of their first meeting grew the B.C. Cancer Foundation, a province-wide organization which would institute a concerted drive against the disease. Its aims were the collection and distribution of funds for the improvement of diagnosis and treatment facilities.

Membership was made up of interested citizens, both lay and medical.

The first centre, a former intern's residence, was officially opened November 5, 1938, by the Hon. Eric W. Hamber, then Lieutenant-Governor of the province. In subsequent years an X-ray therapy machine was purchased and the advice of world-renowned cancer experts enlisted. By 1947, a temporary addition to the Institute was needed, and created, but by March, 1948, it was obvious that this building was no longer adequate.

Then began the planning for the handsome new structure which would bring all the facilities together in one centre, under one roof.

Its establishment is of vital importance to Victorians, as to all British Columbians. This city was fortunate in obtaining a diagnostic cancer clinic in 1948, under the able direction of Dr. H. H. Murphy; this was expanded to include treatment last year, and is now known as the Victoria Cancer Clinic.

Creation of the magnificent Cancer Institute in Vancouver means that latest techniques and treatments are now available within half an hour of this city. To those British Columbians whose foresight and industry produced the new Centre, we say "Well done!" To Dr. A. M. Evans, director, and his competent staff, we offer pledges of support and encouragement from the capital city.

Pedestrians Need More Than Law

CITY TRAFFIC ENGINEER Robert Doble has explained the requirements of the law concerning pedestrian crossings and pedestrian rights-of-way at intersections. In so doing he has furnished a warning to motorists against actions which may cost them a fine or impose upon them the more impressive penalty of participating in a serious accident.

Ignorance of the regulations is no excuse for breaking them. They have been widely publicized and when they are not honored, prosecution should follow for the protection of the public.

But in such cases of localized traffic regulation, the actual terms of the rulings should continue to be secondary in importance to the overall principles of cautious driving and—as Mr. Doble points out—careful walking.

Over and above the requirements of the law or by-law, the responsibility for safety rests with the motorists. No two pedestrians bumping one another in a crosswalk can do each other very much harm. One vehicle propelled against a pedestrian can. Too frequently the person on foot fails to exercise proper caution in crossing streets. Too often he invites injury and tragedy. But it is an invitation which seldom carries with it serious consequences unless a car is involved.

Mr. Doble's statement tacitly advises motorists to familiarize themselves with the rules to avoid fines. But with it goes the overriding injunction to all car operators to go further than mere observance of regulations. It calls upon them to take every measure possible—prescribed or otherwise—to protect the life and limb of those people who step off curbs and wander across the street, whether they have the law on their side or not.

Chips

By DAVID BROCK

AT the moment, the liquor inquiry board is busy hearing briefs in the Vancouver Court House. On Tuesday next week it will be hearing briefs in Victoria. By golly, I can hear those briefs from here. There will be briefs from the Voice of the People, meaning the various interests.

... which don't want the poor old public to get what it voted for. The public, you may remember, voted decisively enough and said "Yes, thank you, kind Government, we would indeed like to buy drinks by the glass." But I doubt if there will be any briefs from that big public majority, the customer who voted himself a drink. I doubt if there will even be briefs from small business men who want to start attractive small establishments, each striving to please in order to keep solvent.

NO. Instead, there will be briefs from what are called "vested interests," more or less disguised as the Voice of the People. Some of the interests will try to explain that people have no right to a drink, even after voting for one. The rest will attempt to dictate the circumstances under which they will permit us to enter the gloomy premises sanctioned by the coming new tyranny and monopoly.

The Associated Property Owners of Happy Highlands will prove that a restaurant serving wine with its meals will corrupt its youth... the youth of that district, not the tougher and less deserving kiddies of the slums. Property values will stagger and drop dead... this always happens when youth is corrupted, and is indeed another name for the same thing.

SOME of the makers of strong drink, if I guess aright, should be able to disguise themselves as the Safe and Sane League of Voters. The bigger hotels (with or without beer parlors to feel the coming change) should also be able to appear in false whiskers as the Sane and Safe Council of Prudent Restrictions. Appropriate restrictions could be to leave the monopoly in the hands of existing beer parlors (those sinister caverns that could drive a man to suicide as well as to drink). Or you could make it impossible for a man to get a wine and/or spirits license unless he paid some stupendous fee. Or unless he already owned a very large restaurant. Or both. You should also, of course, prudently limit the number of licenses to a few carefully selected existing big-shots... this would be safe and sane for the big-shots. It might increase the sales of the big-shots (against their will) but at least it would keep down the sales of little places that weren't allowed to exist.

IT would be too much to expect the government to submit a brief saying "Whatever we do will be political rashness, so let us promise everything while doing nothing." So there won't be any six copies of that one submitted in writing. But in the past, such briefs have blown around in the wind all by themselves and have been quite satisfactory. Satisfactory not only to governments, but to all who like to keep the future as vague as possible.

The big-shots won't be the only ones to point out that competition is the foe of real liberty. Anyone interested in ugly surroundings and ghastly meals will be in favor of suppressing the small, new, enterprising innkeeper and cafe-owner. "Nothing venture, nothing gain" might be a silly motto in a free world, but it works just fine when there is a law against competition... works fine for the boys who are interested in passing such a law. The growers of B.C. wines are also mighty interested in keeping imported wines from competing.

TRUE, there will be arguments in favor of making things attractive to tourists. To say that we only want to be civilized in order to catch tourists is perhaps a primitive way of sounding civilized. But suppose this rather shocking ambition is our true one... to pretend we are civilized, just to fool the tourist who is going to please him best? Will he like it best to find a dozen gay little places, each trying to outdo the rest in good cheer... unusual food, good wine, and surroundings that make him glad to have come so far? Or does he prefer a single lumpyish-hostelry, where men with lumpyish minds can force anything they want on him?

THE big-shots claim he prefers the latter, because he and they are all in favor of moderation. Moderation means sticking to the devil you know, instead of being permitted by law to look for an angel you don't know. And it's no use saying the tourist may know better angels at home or in Europe. Rubbish... how could the big-shots be wrong, when they have the tourist's best interests at heart?

Well, there will be plenty of briefs along these lines. But I fear there will be few or none from Mr. Average Voter. Which is a pity. The average voter didn't ask for more fuss and more restrictions. He asked for less fuss and fewer restrictions. He doesn't want his quiet supper and his location selected for him by experts who advise committees, and by committees who advise legislators, and by legislators who batter him over the head with statutes.

A BRIEF from the average voter (whose word is supposed to be law) could point out that while every country in the world now has too many laws and too many experts and busybodies and bullies and inquisitions, you can still take your ease at your inn in most countries. It is easy to overpraise the English pub, which is usually owned by or tied to a brewer; which is often dirty, ugly, and uncomfortable; which sells weak beer at a highly taxed price; which is hardly ever the place for a meal; which regards the stranger with hostility, often enough; which hardly dreams of wine; and which nearly always forbids singing.

But an English pub is paradise compared with what we've got, or are likely to get... it has a soul. As for some German or Italian garden on a summer evening, with all the customers singing (and knowing the songs, and how to sing, and how to live)... couldn't we customers and voters have a tiny soul too, please?

MEDICAL FEES

Perhaps I am a wolf howling in the wilderness but I would protest most emphatically at the very excessive fees charged by some of the medical profession for their services. In one specific case the fee running as high as one dollar per minute for actual time and services rendered; $7.50 for a personal visit of a few moments and medicine on top of that, etc. Is it not about time these people came down to earth to give Mr. Average Citizen a break?

of production, with these improvements proceeding faster than the growth in markets, with the results that the markets are filled in a shorter time than before with unemployment spreading faster and farther as a consequence. There is no escape from this position, nor any solution of the problem while private ownership of materials and instruments of production remains.

FROM THE SIDELINES

Standing on the sidelines with open mind watching the political shenanigans in the wake of the recent provincial election, I incline to the belief that honor is gasping on the roadside and sportsmanship is on its way out.

The Social Credit group—practically unknown in the province and not conceded a ghost of a show of winning the election—won by two clean knockouts and one on a points decision. And oh! what a shock; but more amazing the utter dearth of sportsmanship on the part of the losers, for not one man was big enough to go forward in virile humility to shake hands and congratulate the winners. Some are licking their wounds and planning new strategy for the comeback trail, others gnashing their teeth and shouting "We wuz robbed."

They all realize their mistakes. In moments of bitter retrospection, they see where they lowered their guard and forgot to duck. It should now be apparent to all that political ballyhoo, oratory and egg-shell promises do not win elections. And the questionable tactics of harassing the new premier and trying to sabotage his victory by slurs, subtle innuendo and outright prevarication show a lack of sporting instinct not easily condoned.

I am not conversant with the policies of the Social Credit party, nor have I met any of them. A careful scrutiny of their photos, however, indicated they were a clean-cut, intelligent group of men radiating honesty and sincerity and deserving common courtesy.

Forgetting the fact that British Columbia is more prosperous than at any time in its history, the voters, for some reason or other, wanted a change. Constitutional machinery gave them what they wanted. And if the new government can emulate the sound and efficient record of the Alberta government, the voters will not regret their demands for a change. For I have yet to meet the Albertan—and I have questioned many—who speaks ill of his government. Respect and faith was brought about by removing many time-honored frills and discarding traditional functions detrimental to the taxpayers and inimical to the ideals of government efficiency.

Therefore, let's be good sports and give the winners of the election a fair chance. Then some day, instead of cursing the government, we may be proud of the Social Credit group for their stable and efficient management.

Montreal Writer Jumps Aboard

By Tempus, in The Financial Times

THE NEW PREMIER of British Columbia, William Andrew Cecil Bennett, is a good-looking, dark haired man with a quick smile and an appealing personality.

Your correspondent ran across him here in British Columbia at the opening of the Elk Falls Paper Company's new mill at Duncan Bay. He was with his new Finance Minister Gunderson.

Bennett was making himself agreeable to a knot of men when your correspondent met him.

"You are a puzzle; I do not know which way you are going," I remarked to him.

"I'll tell you which way I am going," he said, firmly, "I am going straight ahead!"

But it was not to intrude my personal part into the story that I am writing this. What impressed me profoundly—and profoundly is the word—is the effect that Bennett is having on British Columbia, and also the effect he was having on the 500 business men who had taken in the Duncan Bay pulp mill outing.

There was the inevitable sequence of speeches from the company big shots. Even though they were limited to four minutes, they were beginning to tire out the crowd who could stand only a minimum of such talk.

Then up jumped Bennett. "There are a lot of things I would like to say to you folks," said this quick smiling man as he turned on the old personality. "But this is not the time nor the place."

FRESH TALK

The crowd was eating right out of his hand, thanks to his fresh talk, his appealing personality.

Then he winded dressed for about 30 seconds before he electrified the crowd with: "I stand for private enterprise all the way!"

These hard-headed business men looked on this sharp hardware man from Kelowna as a welcome political oasis in the sea of socialism. Fed up with uncertainty, agonized over the threat of the social state, he was one guy who was at least going their way; even if he had a different road map and a different way of travel.

I did a bit of scouting around while out there and I found out that the Liberals and Conservatives are scared of him. They sense that his tactics will be to take over the B.C. Tories and amalgamate (or swallow) them into the Social party. After all, our Billy Boy was a Tory himself a while back till he quarreled with 'Erb (H.) Anscomb.

Then, as to the Liberals, he will try to isolate them, and shoot them down one by one. The Nazis, after any convoy, liked to get the stragglers one at a time.

NO ANSCHLUSS

Bennett meanwhile could make an Anschluss with Alberta and Premier Manning. Whether he cares to do that, however, on any but the most formal and correct terms is anybody's guess. For it is improbable that Bennett wants to play Prague to Manning's Moscow.

It is unlikely Bennett will put up an umbrella on a sunny day in Victoria just because it is raining in Edmonton. On the other hand, Bennett is no fool. He knows that the west end of Canada is now Social Credit and, with a little luck and a lot of work, parts of Saskatchewan are ripe. The rest of Canada is of course a tougher nut to crack.

But a guy can dream dreams, and maybe Bennett sees himself as a national figure. If not, then at least he can rise to an eminence like Macdonald in Nova Scotia, or Douglas in Saskatchewan, or Duplessis in Quebec. There are always, as Birkenhead said, glittering prizes for sharp wits.

Will he win? Bennett is as sure of being the next Premier of British Columbia as Elizabeth is of being the next Queen of England.

Ups and Downs

By BRIAN TOBIN

"ONE," said the Elevator Man, "of the intriguing things about some newspaper stories is what they leave out. Sometimes it's the beginning, sometimes the middle, sometimes the ending, but it's just enough to leave you wondering how come and what now. Take that piece yesterday, for instance. It seems some fella deserted from the U.S. army in Ohio. Next you hear of him he's floating around in the Bering Sea off the coast of Alaska on a rubber raft. How did he get there? Why? What's going on? It has not been explained," says the item. Or sometimes you get Jack Jones arrested for shooting Bill Brown with a blunderbuss. The story describes, say, how Jack hit Bill, and where the body lay, with a nice little piece about how the blunderbuss has been handed down for generations through the Jones family. But—'the motive was undisclosed.' It's mighty frustrating, that kind of thing. Truth may be stranger than fiction, but at least the fiction author spills the beans in the last chapter and sends you to bed with all the questions answered. You aren't left wondering whodunit. Going up!"

"Trouble is," said the Elevator Man, "life is more truth than fiction. You don't get your life story with all the ends neatly tied and the problems solved. Characters drift into the narrative and out again without any explanation. And the last chapter often comes in the middle of the book, when the hero or heroine (that's you) gets killed off prematurely. That raises still more questions, but at least you don't have to answer them. That's up to the people in the sequel. Lower main!"

"Folks," said the Elevator Man, "are apt to get so interested in the volume their lives are writing that they forget all about the sequel. But that's another difference between life and fiction. Each life has a sequel whether you want it or not. All the threads you leave behind you when you are called away must continue to be woven by other hands. Each act you did in life lives on to have repercussions and effects long after you've gone. For many people the sequel is a more important volume than the life itself, for it's in the children, the memories and the results they leave behind them that the full value of their life is seen."

'This Is How . . .'

NO STRANGER IN THE HOUSE

Dancers From 16 to 60 Enjoy Pro-Rec Program

BY PETE LOUDON

Half an hour after the music started at Pro-Rec square dance lessons, in the Crystal Garden Thursday night, there wasn't a stranger left in the place.

The first thing Mrs. Gwen Joyce, popular instructor, did was arrange things so that her 150 old and new students were changing places, changing partners, changing step, and some newcomers, who were Victorian enough to come out in usual dancewear, were wishing they had changed to something cooler.

Who were these people cavorting like coits, many in skirt and sweater, plaid shirt or dungarees? They were citizens of staid Victoria who think they have "staid" that way long enough and turned out to "let their hair down" at the free fun-jamboree, sponsored by the physical education and recreation branch of the Department of Education.

Assisted by Miss Zoe Richards, Mrs. Joyce called the complicated manoeuvres from the stage, and the intent pupils made them look easy.

TRANSLATION

The terminology of the old barn dance was translated in part by Mrs. Joyce. "Back to back and around your partner," is neatly summed up in a melodious "Do-si-do," for instance. More complicated are the poetic, "Birdie fly in and crow flies out" and "Allamenlet" (that's how it sounds), "Promenade" and "right hand over, left hand under." If a man gets confused and is discovered wandering aimlessly, as often happens after the wild gyrations of "everybody swing," his opposite number is quickly located for him, dazed looks are replaced by smiles, and the dance goes on.

SIMULTANEOUS

Registration still proceeds for the sessions which are held at the Crystal Garden on Thursdays at 8 p.m. and at the Willows school auditorium at the same time under direction of Mrs. Helen Tregellas.

Mrs. Joyce points out that the mannerisms of many of the old dances revive old world courtesies, almost forgotten in this age of equal rights for women, but the greatest gain to her avid classes is expressed in the final

Black Light Features Magic Master's Show

A Victoria magician, Carl Hemeon, 100 Burnside Road West, will play a featured part in the annual "get-together" of the Vancouver Magic Society.

Assisted by his wife, he will present a new and startling

"black light" routine on the U.B.C. auditorium stage Saturday night in the society's "International Stars of Magic Revue."

Now a bus driver, he has been practicing magic for 20 years, and used to be on the stage in eastern Canada. He is the only Victorian invited to take part in the show, to be attended by magicians from all Pacific Coast centres.

He will be accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Hawkes, who helped to prepare the act for the yearly magicians' "shop-talk" session.

"I'm satisfied it's the best there is in Victoria, and comparable to anything originating in Vancouver," Mr. Hemeon said of his act.

Greek Ruler Asks Minister To Take Over

ATHENS, Oct. 10 (AP)—King Paul today set Nov. 16 as the date for Greece's new general parliamentary elections. The monarch also entrusted Attorney-General Dimitrios Kiousopoulos with the formation of a caretaker government to serve until a new cabinet is formed after the voting.

The new royal decree put the final seal of approval on the king's order Oct. 7 dissolving parliament and accepting the resignation of the coalition government of Liberals and National Progressives headed by Premier Nicholas Plastiras.

The king's move was made in an effort to get a majority government to aid the nation's grave economic situation. It followed several weeks of unsuccessful attempts to persuade Field Marshal Alexander Papagos, leader of the strong right-wing Greek rally, to join in a national government.

Negro Terrorists Mutilate Elderly Nairobi Couple

NAIROBI, Kenya, Oct. 10 (Reuters)—Five anti-white Mau Mau terrorists Thursday night broke into an elderly British couple's bedroom in a suburb of Nairobi and slashed their faces and arms.

Lt.-Col. Richard M. G. Tulloch, 75, retired, and his 74-year-old wife were left bleeding on the floor. Both were in serious condition in hospital today.

The Mau Mau, a secret African organization using terrorist methods to back up its aim of driving Europeans from this British colony, has been responsible for a wave of attacks on people and livestock. Attacks on whites, however, have been rare.

INSURANCE AGENTS MARCH FOR PAY HIKE

LONDON, Oct. 10 (Reuters)—More than 800 smartly-dressed insurance salesmen marched through central London Thursday, their black briefcases swinging in military precision, to demand a pay raise.

The display took Londoners by surprise. Thousands watched the marchers who had been instructed to behave with "dignity and decorum."

Their employer, the giant Prudential Assurance Company, had rejected a demand for a 11 7/8 weekly wage increase. The salesmen get a basic weekly salary of about £6 and commissions.

They marched to the company's headquarters where a deputation presented their demands to General Manager E. Gardner. He said their request to reopen negotiations would be considered.

Bandmaster's Farewell In Tonight's Concert

The 42-piece brass band of the Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's) will present a concert tonight at 8 in the auditorium of S. J. Wilks Junior High School.

Proceeds of the event will go to the school's music department. The concert will be the last one to be given by Sgt. D. K. Denike. The new bandmaster, who is also new to the regiment, will be Officer Cadet Gordon B. King. King is a Bachelor of Music and teaches music at Oak Bay High School.

Pte. David Reuben Andrist, 20, attached to the central ordnance depot here, is accused of choking the infant because it cried.

Andrist told police he married the baby's mother, the former Valerie Anne Roe, 19, last Aug. 22 after the birth of the child. He said he was not the baby's father.

The baby was pronounced dead on arrival at hospital late Friday. Hospital authorities said they were told the mother was out and Andrist was in an adjoining room.

Two Victoria Groups Prepare Liquor Briefs

Hotel, Restaurant Owners Will Plead

At least two Victoria groups will present briefs to the liquor inquiry committee, which holds a hearing in Victoria at the Legislative Buildings Tuesday.

They are the Victoria Branch of the Canadian Restaurant Association, and the Vancouver Island Hotelmen's Association.

R. S. Porter, the restauranters' head here, said today their brief is to be presented by lawyer Donald Anderson, and will contain a complete account of the branch's attitude on the important liquor distribution question. H. B. Olson of the Hotelmen's group, said his brief is being prepared, but he didn't know yet who will present it.

St. Aidan's United Church may also present a brief.

Meanwhile, Ray Whelams, campaign manager for the Greater Victoria Citizens' Association, announced his group has joined forces with the Alcohol Research Council, and a brief will be presented Friday in Vancouver as a joint effort.

"The association has held several meetings with Arthur Cowley, council secretary, and decided to lend 100 per cent support to the research council's brief."

"It's the most complete survey on record," said Mr. Whelams.

The Victoria Ministerial Association will, not present a brief, an official said. The matter is being handled in Vancouver through the provincial group. The government-appointed inquiry committee will meet at 10 a.m. Tuesday and hear any relevant facts regarding distribution, sale and consumption of liquor in the province.

Gary Cooper—An Institution

MR. DEEDS COMES TO TOWN

The aura that clothes tall, lanky Gary Cooper comes not so much from the fact that he's a film star of high calibre, but from the fact that he's been around so long that he has become an institution.

I wonder how many realize that the man who passed through Victoria Wednesday on his way to a Mainland British Columbia holiday, fresh from accolades following his starring role in Stanley Kramer's "High Noon," was once a Helena, Montana, newspaper cartoonist?

As is the case of most artists his life has been varied, to say the least. Following his cartoonist's career he became an advertising salesman for a Los Angeles paper. It wasn't until he was approaching 30 that he became identified with the motion picture industry.

Since then he has entertained peoples of the world for more than two decades in pictures that will linger long in the minds of those who saw them. Think of some of them: Hemingway's "Farewell to Arms," "Coward's Design for Living," "Lives of a Bengal Lancer," "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town," "Sergeant York"—for which he was honored with an Academy Award; "Pride of the Yankees," "The Fountainhead," etc., etc., and etc.

The wonder of the whole affair is that Mr. Cooper seems quite indestructible and ageless. Watching him run around, six-shooters ever ready, as sheriff in "High Noon," I couldn't help but wonder if his feet ever hurt. Therefore, I was pleased to see him quoted in Vancouver yesterday as saying that he found the fight scenes rugged indeed. Now 51 (he was born in Helena, Mont., May 7, 1901), the indestructible Gary has no doubt many million more riding, fighting and shooting miles left in him. At least his fans will certainly hope so.

Billed always as a quiet, modest, likeable guy, Cooper was quoted recently as attributing his long billing at the top because "I'm very lucky."

On the OUTDOOR FRONT

By ROY THORSEN

Manchester-born Sam Lane of Victoria, an R.A.F. squadron leader in World War II, wasn't lured to this country by false pretences.

An Isaac Walton stalwart from his days in knee-pants, Sam really came here because of some "worded bait."

"I was only 15 when I read a book by an American author telling of the rich lake and salmon fishing in the Cowichan Bay area. I made up my mind then I would some day pack up and move to Vancouver Island," he recalled.

He did just that after the curtain had been rung down on the war. He's the proprietor of the Old Country Inn on Lampson Street.

Lane has found the written word was not fiction. Since settling here he's had wonderful sport in freshwater and the saltchuck. But last Tuesday he reached a peak that will be the envy of hundreds of anglers.

He accomplished something of a record. It boils down to this:

Sam, his wife, Rosina (she's of original Victoria stock, the former Miss Owen) and their daughter, Dorothy, aged four were only out on Cowichan Bay waters from 1 to 3 Tuesday afternoon and during that time Sam reeled in five coho that won him gold, silver and bronze buttons from the Cowichan Bay Coho Club. Their weights: 17, 16½, 15 pounds and two 14 pounders—a total of 76½ pounds.

All were caught on a light rod—as light as a trout rod—trotting a bucktail fly.

Sam may have hit it lucky—got in on the first big run of coho to enter the bay this fall. In any case, boathouse operators at the bay report fishing at this holiday weekend will be seeking a share of the $1,000 worth of prizes in the annual Cowichan Bay coho derby.

Derby entrants do not have to be members of the Cowichan Bay Club. There's $100 cash award each day for the biggest coho registered by an entrant—and the club is sharing the net proceeds 50-50 with the Salarium.

A. N. Hultman, of Cedar Cabins, Cowichan Lake, wrote down this week to report Cowichan Lake fishing is producing some good catches of trout. Nice creels were scored last week-end by Mr. and Mrs. Earl Bertram of Victoria, using wet fly, and Charlie Watkins and Harry Baker of this city, using gang troll and worms.

"With the cooler nights, trout should be getting more active and hungry," says Hultman.

There are quite a number of trout reported moving in the upper reaches of Cowichan River. Jack Gray, who has been fishing with Rod Smith, reports Shawngnan Lake evening fishing producing fair results.

Roger Monteith says that Campbell Lakes are a good fishing bet these days.

Both hunters and freshwater fishermen are hoping for a good solid rainfall to improve sport on the game trails and in lake and stream.

Ray Ritchie, president of the Victoria Fish and Game Protective Association, said that F. Beebe, of the Provincial Museum, gave members a fine illustrated talk of the use of falcons in hunting at Monday night's meeting in the Goldstream clubhouse.

Beebe told them, with pictures to back it up, how the hawk—or falcon—was being used in the east to bag game without the use of a gun. The falcon is only used in country where legal game is known to be in good numbers.

The association is appealing to the average hunter who will be hunting pheasants in Saanich peninsula starting Oct. 18 to use "good judgment and ask permission to hunt on farmers' properties before entering."

The hunter-farmer good relations plan between the farmer and members of the fish-game club will be resumed this year. Last year's experiment in this direction has produced a better feeling between both factions, Ritchie said.

Inspector George Stevenson, chief of the island branch of the B.C. Game Department, reports that a number of hunters have got buck deer this year "but the woods have got to be dampened down before good hunting by the general crowd can be realized."

SHORT SHOTS: Cliff Eastwood bagged five out of 14 blue grouse he saw in Sooke-Metchosin Rocky Point area one day this week. He was also up Campbell River way, reports seeing 21 does and one buck, "but some of the boys are still bringing out some nice antlered trophies." Jack Roach is very secretive about where he gets his grouse. He got his one-day limit—six—last week-end. He's off to the Cariboo this week to gun for geese and moose.

Sam Lane has been taking out guests to his inn on fishing trips and they've done well. Fred Rodgers, Seattle, and Dean Bosquill, Phoenix, Arizona, got one coho each last week-end at Cowichan Bay. Capt. Roberts, Chevy Chase, Missouri, and Berkeley F. Jones, Pasadena, Calif., got three coho weighing eight to 10 pounds. G. H. Whitcomb, Houston, Texas, reeled in a 14½-pounder, and R. Richardson, Kingston, Ont., took 12 and 15-pounders.

Entries in Sylvester U-Drive Island buck deer competition has now reached 10. Jack Robbins tells us, however, there is still room for a trophy winner.

Newest trophies have been entered by Charles Godher, 620 Agnes; B. Bowe, 3143 Wascana; Richard L. Creed, 1175 Burnside; Jim Maxwell, 852 Seven Oaks; L. G. Hauser, 903 Hereward; and Bernie Linskill, 1010 Balmoral.

Fishing in Saanich Inlet—grilse, coho and springs offered—is still rated fairly good.

Walls Scores Quick Kayo

EDMONTON, Alta., Oct. 10 (BUP).—Canadian heavyweight champion Earl Walls of Edmonton Thursday night scored a first-round knockout over Hank Thurman of Los Angeles, Calif., in the shortest heavyweight bout ever fought in the oil capital.

Two Hours—and Three Buttons

Sam Lane, with wife, Rosina, and daughter, Dorothy, with his catch of coho beauties, caught in two hours Tuesday at Cowichan Bay, that won him gold, silver and bronze buttons from Cowichan Bay Coho Club. Coho derbyists over the week-end will be hoping to duplicate Sam's feat in order to cash in on the $1,000 derby prize list. The annual big coho run is now on, report boathouse owners and club officials.

Joe Deserves Another Title Try, Rates N.B.A.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10 (AP).—The National Boxing Association said today that Jersey Joe Walcott, who has had an unprecedented five chances to win the world's heavyweight title, is entitled to yet another chance.

Its quarterly ratings put the new champion, Rocky Marciano, at the top, of course. But right below him is that old familiar name, Walcott.

The only others listed as logical contenders for Marciano's new crown are Rex Layne and Ezzard Charles, the one-time heavyweight king who is attempting a comeback.

Marciano, who knocked Jersey Joe out last month, probably would agree Walcott might make his most dangerous opponent.

Walcott was ahead on points when the fight came dramatically in the 13th.

Layne, right behind Walcott, has beaten old Joe once—but he also has lost to Harry "Kid" Matthews, who now rates no higher than third among the light heavyweights.

Charles knocked out Bernie Reynolds of Fairfield, Conn., last night. Charles said after the bout he'd like to fight Marciano, but would prefer to take on Layne first.

In an accompanying news release, the N.B.A. noted sadly there were few new names among the nation's top-ranking boxers.

Boxing commissioner Abe J. Greene jabbed at an old N.B.A. foe, television. He said television has killed off the small clubs.

"The ratings show few if any new names," Greene said, "since the source of such talent is the now defunct small club, which has dropped out of the picture due to the competition from televised contests."

The ratings:

HEAVYWEIGHT
Champion: Rocky Marciano, Massachusetts.
Logical contenders: 1. Joe Walcott, New Jersey; 2. Rex Layne, Utah; 3. Ezzard Charles, Ohio.

OUTSTANDING BOXERS: 1. Roland LaStarra, New York; 2. Clarence Henry, California; and 3. Jimmy Rivin, Ohio.

LIGHT-HEAVYWEIGHT
Champion: Joey Maxim, Ohio.
Logical contenders: 1. Archie Moore, Missouri; 2. Harry Matthews, Washington.

OUTSTANDING BOXERS: 1. Harold Johnson, Pennsylvania; 2. Jake LaMotta, New York; 3. Wesley Barcomb, Missouri; 4. Battered, Illinois; and 5. Dan Bucoconi, Pennsylvania.

GUESSING GAME BEGINS

Should Case Worry?

NEW YORK, Oct. 10 (AP).—The big guessing game was on today—how much gold will New York Yankees lay out to get Casey Stengel to try for his fifth straight world baseball championship?

The Yankees were being coy about it, and the cagy Stengel for once wasn't talking—not about salary, anyhow. But reports were flying.

According to these reports, Stengel will get a new contract for two or three years. The figure will be between $75,000 and $100,000 a year.

Stengel, 61 and forced to watch his health, spiked rumors of retirement after the Yankees defeated Brooklyn Dodgers this week for their fourth straight series title under Stengel.

"My boys didn't quit on me," he announced, "I don't plan to quit on them."

The Yankee front office said there had been no conferences with Stengel since the world series and none is known to be scheduled.

Meanwhile, speculation about Stengel's future salary is adding up to a lot of good publicity, to which no baseball club is averse, and the Yankees may let the situation boil a while before coming up with the official announcement.

Hugh Bradley, writing in the New York Journal American, said Stengel "is sure to return as manager for a two-year period at $100,000 per season if he feels his income tax statement can stand this extra burden."

Dan Daniel of the New York World Telegram has different dope. Daniel says "Stengel has been tendered a new contract for three years. His total salary for the term will be $240,000."

That work out to $80,000 a year.

Baseball salaries generally are pure guess work. The clubs make a practice of never disclosing them, and the players follow suit.

CADET RECORD AT STAKE

Leading Grid Clubs To Clash Saturday

Can the cadet powerhouse from until Grey Cup time in Toronto on Royal Roads, undefeated in two complete seasons of Canadian football league play make it three in a row?

That's a question only the boys in blue and white can answer when they meet Ray Mitchell's Vampires at Heywood Avenue park Saturday at 2.

In the season to date both teams have an undefeated record. Winner of Saturday's match will take over the league leadership.

Pleased with the way the crowds are turning out for this season's brand of Canadian football, league officials are planning an extra-exciting afternoon.

In addition to what promises to be the season's most thrilling grid fare, the league is endeavoring to have the R.C.N.'s fine band on hand for musical interludes.

Two six-man squads of boys from St. Louis College will play a 15-minute game at half-time.

The league hopes that it will be boys like this who will eventually make the Victoria brand of football the type that holds the rest of the nation enthralled from the opening kick-off in late August.

HOOP TEAM SEEKS NAME

Mr. and Mrs. Basketball Fan: Can you think of a good, catchy name that can be attached to Victoria's new senior A men's entry?

Give it a try, anyway, and send your suggestions to this newspaper's sports department before midnight, October 18.

Manager Pat Horgan is offering two season tickets to the person who turns in the name accepted.

Ex-Dominio star Stan "Busher" Jackson is the team coach.

AMATEUR MITT CARD TONIGHT

Sports fans who like to see young boxers mixing it up in the ring will find such an action program tonight at 8 in the auditorium of the Britannia Branch of the Canadian Legion, Arena Way.

It is the first show of the new season carded by the newly-formed Greater Victoria Amateur Boxing Association.

There will be 10 bouts bringing together peewees of 50 pounds to battlers going 160 pounds.

Stock Car Races Feature Final Program

Stock car pilots will be in the spotlight Monday afternoon at Sheering Speedway, Cobble Hill, when they battle it out for the Vancouver Island championship in the closing car racing program of the year.

Program will start at 2 p.m. Officials expect between 15 and 20 entries in the 30-lap big race.

At the close of the show trophies will be awarded to the No. 1 big car racer, and the most popular driver of the season.

Eight big cars will also roar over the speedway. They will be in a 15-lap main event final.

Racing club members at a meeting Friday night indicated that there will be about 20 local big cars on the track next year and probably five from outside centres.

Retains Ring Title

MILAN, Oct. 10 (AP).—Ray Farnham of France retained his European featherweight championship on Thursday night by knocking out Italy's Nello Barbadore in the fourth round of a scheduled 15-round bout.

The Yankee front office said there had been no conferences with Stengel since the world series and none is known to be scheduled.

Meanwhile, speculation about Stengel's future salary is adding up to a lot of good publicity, to which no baseball club is averse, and the Yankees may let the situation boil a while before coming up with the official announcement.

Victoria Boy Pedals 750 Miles Over Europe

A 15-year-old student of Victoria High School modestly divulged today that he cycled over 750 miles through continental Europe, unaccompanied, last summer.

Christmas Tree Sale Already Being Planned

Although Christmas is over two months away, the Optimist Club is already making plans for its annual sale of Christmas trees.

The club is arranging to buy 1,500 trees, it was reported at a luncheon meeting Thursday in the Pacific Club.

Optimists will use a parking lot in the Fairfield business area to carry on the sales. All proceeds will go to furthering boys' work.

David Anderson, son of Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Anderson, 1972 Fairfield, and a grandson of the well-known Gillespie family of early Victoria, was still only 14 when his bicycle tour commenced at Montreaux, Switzerland. His journey followed the course of the Rhine River along the French border, through western Germany to the dyked city of Rotterdam, in Holland.

David was already a seasoned traveler. He accompanied his parents to Hong Kong five years ago and proceeded from there to Switzerland for schooling, with his sister.

The young wanderer had earlier visited most of the European countries, but his plan to provide his own locomotion on such an extended trip was his most ambitious project.

David was greatly impressed by the kindness of the people he met in each country he visited. He speaks French well, but the German and Dutch languages presented some difficulty. Not enough to prevent him meeting a young Hollander in Rotterdam, however, who took David to his austerly-humbled home rather than see him lodged in a hostel. David stayed with his new-found friend for three days.

A ski-enthusiast, David gives an impression of early maturity. His ambitions have not solidified as yet, however. He is still basking in the warmth of home and is happy with the thought of a ski-feldbruck air base July 26.

Two Years for Killing Her Sergeant Husband

MUNICH, Germany, Oct. 10 (AP)—Mrs. Martha Joan Wage, 19, was sentenced Thursday to two years and six months in prison for killing her husband, a United States air force sergeant, after he brought home a German girl friend with the introduction: "Look what I've got here."

A three-judge American court convicted the light blonde widow from Red Wing, Minn., of intentional manslaughter. Her husband, Sgt. Dan Wage, 26, was basking in the warmth of home and is happy with the thought of a ski-feldbruck air base July 26.

He's Real Blood Bank Supporter

One of Victoria's most consistent blood-donors, Sydney Hayward, 23 Menzies Street, was presented with a "60-donation" pin at a brief ceremony in Red Cross House Thursday afternoon. Presentation was made by M. L. Fitzgerald, chairman of the blood transfusion service of the Red Cross. Mr. Hayward made his sixtieth donation some time ago, and has now given 65 pints over the past 11 years. He is an R.C.N. veteran. (Times Photo.)

APPEAL COURT SATISFIED

Sewer Grate Re-Assembled To Prove Theft Theory

B.C. Court of Appeal dismissed an appeal Thursday taken on behalf of Thomas Rublatz, 42, of Vancouver, who was sentenced by County Court Judge A. E. Lord to serve one year in Oakalla for stealing a number of sewer grates from Vancouver streets between Sept. 15 and Oct. 17 of last year.

A. A. Mackoff, counsel for Rublatz, argued evidence at the trial which connected his client with the grates was circumstantial. S. J. Remnant, counsel for the Crown, submitted evidence which showed Rublatz and an accomplice had collected grates from city streets; had smashed them into small pieces and then had disposed of them by selling them to various Vancouver junk dealers as scrap metal.

He exhibited a photograph of one grate which was reassembled by police from scrap which Rublatz had sold.

Evidence showed 35 grates, each weighing 125 pounds, had been sold. MODERN TREND ILKESTON, England (CP)—Twenty-five applications for permission to erect aerials on council houses were received by town authorities. All but one were for television aerials.

Children's Choir Is Art Centre Project

Establishment of a children's choir, annual presentation of the Paganini Quartet recital and an exhibit by the Victoria Weavers Guild are all included in an enlarged program of the Arts Centre of Greater Victoria.

Sunday afternoon recitals by Victoria artists will round out ambitious plans for the fall and winter season, directors have indicated. Opening dates for the recitals have yet to be announced. It is intended as an opportunity for local students to become known by the public.

Victoria Normal School music teachers will conduct children's instruction and space for the rehearsals will also be provided at the Moss Street centre. Choir members, picked for vocal quality, will be from the nine-to-eleven age group.

It is announced that adult painting classes under well-known painter-teacher, Mrs. Ina D. D. Uthoff are still recruiting. Special classes for business men are still open for registration but Saturday morning children's classes are now filled.

Petite But Powerful

Fresh from the Baltic, where it participated in "Exercise Mainbrace," largest naval manoeuvres held yet by N.A.T.O., the midget submarine XE-8 heads up the Thames to London to be viewed by the public. On deck of the British sub—one of the smallest offensive units in the world—are Commander Lieut. H. T. Verry and First-Lieut. Ralph Cudworth.

Trade Armada Export Idea

LONDON (CP)—Parliamentary support will be sought for a novel plan to send a modern armada over the seven seas in search of export markets for Britain.

The idea was suggested by Richard Levin, designer of the Festival of Britain travelling exhibition. It is reported to have the enthusiastic backing of leaders of the major political parties.

Norman Dodds, Labor member for Dartford, who will place the matter before the president of the Board of Trade when Parliament reconvenes, said the plan was to put a floating fair aboard a fleet of ships cruising around the world to boost British goods. "I see it as a British armada setting out to recapture world trade and creating a new Elizabethan era of merchant adventures," said Levin.

$50,000 Cash Missing From U.S. Airliner

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 10 (AP)—A thorough investigation was under way today to determine how $50,000 in cash disappeared from an airliner as it winged its way from Miami to Lima, Peru.

Puzzled officials of Pan American Airways (Panagra) said the money might have been stolen in flight or while the four-engined DC-6 stopped briefly at Panama and Guayaquil en route.

W. F. Lewis, assistant treasurer of Panagra, who came here from New York to head the investigation, said there was also a possibility the cash might have been "misdirected."

The loss was discovered Sunday when the airliner El Inter-Americano landed at Lima. The Panagra New York office said a bag containing the money was found ripped open.

The last big loss of treasure in air transit occurred in Canada last month. Gold weighing nearly half a ton was stolen at Toronto's

British Tories to Fight Against Reds in Country's Trade Unions

SCARBOROUGH, Yorkshire, England, Oct. 10 (CP)—Britain's Conservatives today declared war on Communists in the country's trade unions.

The decision, which followed complaints that the Churchill government treats the movement's union supporters like stepchildren, got mass backing from 4,000 delegates at the party's annual convention.

A resolution was adopted pledging the Conservatives to resist the passing of union control "into the hands of Communists or others who would make the movement subservient to political ends."

Britain's massive trade union movement is the backbone of the Labor Party. Debate on the move aired long-standing grievances by Conservative union men against the party leadership and brought a call for government action to outlaw the closed shop.

The Conservative party claims it has 3,000,000 members in British unions.

As a result of today's decision, a conference source said, the party's 1,000,000-strong Young Conservative League will be a spearhead of the anti-Red move.

The conference urged earlier that Britain's rent-control acts, under which many rents are pegged at pre-war figures, should be brought into line with 1952 conditions.

GHOST-RIDDEN 'SPARE' WIFE GRANTED UNCONTESTED DIVORCE

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 10 (CP)—In the bedroom was an urn containing the first wife's ashes, pressed flowers from her funeral were framed on the wall, and in the closet all her clothes hung neatly.

Mrs. Marie Van Zelm, the second wife, submitted these facts as evidence Thursday in her uncontested divorce suit on grounds of cruel and abusive treatment.

She added that at Christmas there were two Christmas trees, and that her husband said: "One is for us. The other is for you."

City Must Go to Court to Defend Sale of Ogden Point's Elevator

City of Victoria will be served with a court order to appear in Supreme Court here Oct. 15, in connection with an application to quash a City Council resolution to sell Ogden Point grain elevator.

Kerr, Gifford & Co. Inc. of Portland, Oregon, who have leased the elevator for the past two and one half years, announced earlier they would take legal action to retain the lease.

City Council sold the elevator to Hallet & Carey (B.C.) Ltd. of Vancouver for $202,500, which was $1,000 over the bid of Kerr, Gifford. The latter firm then sent the city an offer of $250,000.

The application to the court asked the council resolution authorizing sale be quashed on grounds that:

1. The minister of municipal affairs' approval was not obtained "as required under the City Debt Refunding Act of 1944 which states the minister's approval is required for the sale of capital assets."
2. City Council "unlawfully" delegated to the city solicitor the power to determine the terms and conditions of sale.

FIREPOWER MATCH FOR RED MASSES

Canadian Veterans Tell of Battles, Praise Commonwealth Comrades-in-Arms

A boyish-looking captain of the famous "Princess Pats" addressed the Victoria Rotary Club here Thursday and told members: "The Korean war is a battle between Chinese manpower and our firepower . . . and so far, we have more bullets than they have Chinamen."

Vivid battlefield accounts were narrated by both Capt. R. K. Swinton, M.C., and his brother-in-arms, Lieut. Lorne Glendinning, who are both recently repatriated from the United Nations battlefield. Both Vancouver men, currently at Gordon Head camp, the Captain is a paratrooper with the P.P.C.L.I., and the lieutenant is a commander of tanks with Lord Strathcona Horse.

The Empress hotel luncheon meeting heard a summary of the Canadian Army action in Korea since the first Canadians landed there with the 2nd Battalion, P.P.C.L.I. in 1950.

Captain Swinton's description of the Princess Pats' early arrival, their assignment to the 27th British Commonwealth Brigade, after six weeks' arduous overseas training, the advance and crossing of the 38th parallel, the terrific welcome afforded them by the New Zealanders, the "Jocks" and the "Cockneys," brought the war home to the attentive audience.

'ROKS' BROKE

He told of the Aussies and the Pats holding a vital front against a "howling mob" of Chinese, blowing bugs, and employing noisemakers and flares to terrify the U.N. force. The "ROKS," (South) Korea, at that time poorly led and trained, fell back before them.

The soldiers of Canada "stayed put," he said. He paid high tribute to the New Zealand artillerymen, who, overrun, defended their guns at point-blank range, with cooks, clerks and batmen dying in the effort. The historic and pathetic loss of life and gain of glory by the Gloucesters also entered into the gripping account.

A modest tale of "quiet nights" except for "every second night do's" was told by Lieut. Glendinning. He described the Chinese artillery as "often embarrassing," and could remark:

that "whoever had the barb-wire contract for Korea never has to work."

Questioned regarding recreations available to the men when they were finally pulled back out of the line, Lieut. Glendinning told of hockey matches held on the frozen Imjin River last February. This was made possible by receipt from Canada of 100 pairs of ice skates. Sports, he explained, play an important part in the conditioning of the troops, mentally and physically.

FOLLY FLAMES

Fire Recalls Famous Fraud Of Godalming

GODALMING, Eng., Oct. 10 (Reuters).—"Whitaker's Folly," fabulous 80-room mansion with an underwater ballroom, was badly damaged by fire today.

The mansion was built 50 years ago at a cost of more than $2,000,000, by Whitaker Wright, millionaire financier who poisoned himself after being convicted of some shady deals. The whole estate, known as Whitely Park, is a fabulous Edwardian playground containing 1,300 acres of woodland, a 500-acre deer park, courts, lawns and gardens.

A ballroom built under an artificial lake, with a glass roof so that dancers could look up and see fish swimming above them, was just one of the millionaire's whims.

The building was bought recently by black-bearded meat packer Ronald J. Huggett for $420,000. While alterations were being made the house was unoccupied.

BETWEEN TIMES

By MONTE ROBERTS

The paper printed a very scholarly treatise yesterday about pedestrians and motorists in Victoria.

As far as I could gather, the pedestrians not only have the right-of-way under any and all circumstances, but they also own the streets.

I especially liked the part of the story which read:

"A safety island in mid-street is a haven to mothers with baby carriages and elderly people."

Mothers who wheel elderly people around in baby carriages certainly need safety islands.

The kindly, paternal department of national defense has prepared a 64-page booklet which is designed to help Canadian servicemen get around in Britain, France and Germany.

(A Canuck needs help, yet?)

However, this booklet is crammed from cover to cover with all sorts of handy hints, which should be of considerable interest to all those who are going to Europe, are in Europe or are going to Europe, as guests of the Department of National Defense.

For instance, the booklet conveys the world-shattering information that "there are many things to see in London which may not appear in the guide books, and some of them are fun."

(Like watching someone fall down the stairs at the Chez Moi?)

The booklet points out that British food isn't all that it might be, what with rationing and restrictions, and also that British tastes in food are a little different than ours.

For instance, it says that Canadians like corn on the cob, and British like Brussels sprouts.

(I do not believe that the British actually LIKE Brussels sprouts. Some long-dead prankster must have introduced them as a joke, and the British, like the Scotsmen and the bagpipers, haven't seen the joke.)

The booklet suggests that a serviceman who wants to eat cheaply should stay away from restaurants, and find himself a good public house.

(This he has no doubt done in the first place but as the author of the booklet says, this brings up the subject of the pub, and a right good subject it is, too.)

The booklet touches on the pub as an institution and a tradition, before getting right down to cases:

"British beer is stronger than it tastes, and comes in a wide variety of weights, colors and flavors."

(Never underestimate the power of a tankard.)

The booklet also has some useful information on France. Like this: "What makes France France is the French."

(In any event, it would certainly help.)

However, there is one final and vital bulletin which will be of especial interest to servicemen of last war and war before last.

"In France, the water may not agree with you. Bottled Evian and Vitel water are cheap and safe."

(NOW they tell you! And think of the thousands of men who squandered their money on cognac when they could just have easily bought bottled water.)

I hope the Department of National Defense prints another book real soon.

There will be no letter carrier delivery on Thanksgiving day, Post Office officials announced today.

Wicket service will be available to the public for two hours only, from 9 to 11 a.m. Special delivery mail and the receipt and dispatch of regular mails will be handled as usual. The lobby of the post office will remain open until 6 p.m. for the convenience of box holders.

Plans were made at a recent meeting of Saanich Majestic Park group for a Christmas party for children on Dec. 6 at the Gordon Head Hall. A bazaar will be staged at the party.

Bill Archer of 1826 Government Street doesn't like the idea of poisoning fish in Goodacre Lake.

He's all for letting city kids fish the unwanted catfish out. "We appreciate the sporting gesture," commented Acting Mayor Frank Mulliner today, "but we want to get rid of all the catfish, not just the ones they happen to catch."

Beverly Essler, 18, 453 Kingston Street, was treated at the Royal Jubilee Hospital Thursday night for knee injuries when, car in which she was driving collided with the rear of another car on Quadra Street. Damage to the car was slight.

About 20 gallons of gas and four gas tank caps were stolen from cars parked outside 147 St. Andrews Street Thursday night, city police reported today.

Pickets Quit Bridge When Workers Return

Saanich municipal employees started work today at the Admirals Road bridge with a municipal council promise of pay equal to the bridgemen's rate of $215 per hour.

Bridgemen, members of the Bridgebuilders' and Pavedrivers' Union Local 2415, picketed the job Wednesday when told that municipal crews would finish the bridge.

They claimed jurisdiction on the job because their work contracts called for all new construction to be performed by bridge-men. As a result of their stand municipal employees, ordered Thursday to cross their picket line or be discharged, were suspended.

Settlement was reached Thursday night at a meeting of council and Saanich Municipal Employees' Association when it was agreed that the municipal crew would work at the bridgemen's rate. Discharged men were reinstated without loss of pay or seniority.

Picketing stopped in the face of an injunction, applied for by the municipality and granted Thursday by Mr. Justice A. D. poses," he said.

Majority of British Columbians will get a holiday Nov. 11, Remembrance Day.

It is a statutory holiday under the provisions of the Factories Act and the Shops Regulation and Weekly Holiday Act, R. A. Pennington, deputy provincial secretary, has announced.

E. O'N. Furlong, the C.P.R.'s assistant purchasing agent at Toronto for the past 11 years, has been appointed purchasing agent at Victoria, replacing late B. T. McDonough.

Mr. Furlong was on loan to N.A.A.F.I. as assistant purchasing agent for three years during World War II. He belonged to the railway club and the C.P.R. luncheon club in Toronto.

The Y.M.C.A.'s Young Adult Club got off to a good start on Wednesday and program director Bob Morrison says it looks like it will be one of the best years yet.

Another meeting will be held on Wednesday, Oct. 15, to plan the year's work and entertainment.

B.C. Court of Appeal allowed the appeal of Leslie Neil Wark, 19-year-old Alert Bay fisherman, who came before the court Thursday appealing sentence on a charge of theft of articles over the value of $25.

Wark had been sentenced by Magistrate J. B. Williams to two months hard labor in Oakalla for theft of two tires. He said he found the tires lying by the side of the road.

Bridgemen to Seek Amendment of Act

Bridgemen and Pavedrivers' Union Local 2415 (A.F.L.-T.L.C.), announced today it would seek amendments to the I.C. and A. Act to limit the use of injunctions to "proper purposes."

The union ran head-on into an injunction Thursday when H. K. Bate, acting Saanich reeve, and council applied for a court order restraining the union from picketing work at the Admirals Road bridge now under construction.

"We deplore the action of Acting Reeve Bate in resorting to an injunction to restrain the union from informing the public that Saanich was employing men on the bridge at 91 cents per hour less than the prevailing rate for the work," said A. E. Haines, union president.

"It is our opinion that the use of the injunction is being prostituted, and we will seek amendment to the I.C. and A. Act to limit its use to the proper purpose," he said.

Bonus Means Car for Foot-Tortured War Prisoner

News of Canada's "maltreatment bonus" was welcomed excitedly today by Victoria ex-prisoners-of-war—but not one of them would go through it, again for any amount of money.

The general reaction of the men who were telephoned the good news by The Times this morning can be summed up: "We're sure glad to get the money—we can use it—but it was one hell of a way to earn a dollar a day."

Between 10 and 15 men in Victoria are eligible for the payments, which will be made to all who "served time" in Japanese prison camps, and most of the cheques will be for $1,365.

Anthony F. Grimston, who was a prisoner for three years and eight months, will use the money to pay off a mortgage on his home. A civilian employee at H.M.C. Dockyard, he contacted tuberculosis as a result of his imprisonment, but has slowly fought his way back to health. "We've heard rumors about this for some time," he said. "It is wonderful to know it's true. But I would have given anything at the time to get out of it. Money didn't mean a thing then."

Ray R. Squires, a sergeant with the Canadian Corps of Signals at the fall of Hong Kong, reacted to the news with "That's $1,365." Although he had the days counted, he was not sure to what use he would put the money. "I have a very good idea, though, and it will be used well," he said.

Mr. Squires earned the M.B.E. for his courage and leadership while a P.O.W. "I have no complaints—I could get by without the money," he said, "but there are many of our boys who aren't back on their feet yet, and never will be. They're the ones who deserve all the government could possibly give them."

Horace (Jerry) Gerard, an electrician at the Legislative Buildings, was also with the signal corps when Hong Kong was lost. His feet were badly injured by Japanese beatings, and still pain him so badly they often keep him awake at night. But now his walking problem may be solved. "I've been looking around at cars," he said. "Now perhaps I can get one."

The ex-Japanese prisoners here are worried by one point; they are glad to get the "maltreatment" awards, but wonder if something shouldn't be done for European prisoners.

"Who is going to decide whether a man was badly treated or not?" they ask.

Among other Victoria men reported eligible for the bonus are: Charles Price, of Dominion Securities; Ken Hogarth, cook at Jubilee Hospital; Tom Barton, Canadian Customs and Immigration; Lionel Speller, 3905 Carey Road; Don Phillips, formerly of the D.V.A. hospital, who recently moved to Vancouver, and his brother Bob, also a D.V.A. employee. Dick Maize of Sooke, is also eligible.

But the picture is more confused for other P.O.W.s who must wait to see if they will benefit under the "certain camp" wording of the Ottawa announcement.

"Oh, you're kidding," was the comment of former air force flyer and lacrosse star, Duff McCaghey when he heard the news. He was a prisoner of war for one year and a half. His partner, Tommy Mackay, also in the air force was prisoner for two years.

"Things really got rough in the last six months because the Germans were not living up to the terms of the Geneva Convention," said McCaghey.

Ernie Underwood was one of the Victorians taken prisoner in the Dieppe raid, Aug. 19, 1942. He was in prisoner-of-war camp for two and three-quarter years. He was with the 16th Canadian Light A.A. Regiment. Also taken prisoner in the raid with the same outfit were Hank Slater, Victoria, and Bob Wattie, Honeymoon Bay.

Among other airforce veterans of Victoria taken prisoner were Cecil Langdon, Johnny Fraser, Bill Clark and Jimmy Pollock.

Government Alleviates Mental Ward Crowding

The provincial government is experience in dealing with the mental health problem, are well aware of the problems—and the long standing overcrowding problem in British Columbia's mental institutions, it was learned today.

The government, now in the midst of tackling the big problem, will announce its new program late this month or early in November.

Extensive investigations have been carried out and reports have been given to Provincial Secretary Black, the minister responsible for the province's mental health services.

Sources close to the cabinet say the government is worried about overcrowding in mental hospitals and is determined to make an early start on improvements.

"We never realized the seriousness of conditions in these institutions," said a government member. "The grievous overcrowding must be alleviated."

Action on the situation might have come sooner but for the Oakalla Prison riot which resulted in the government giving top priority to the task of easing crowded conditions in the jail.

While the government's immediate concern is overcrowding in B.C.'s mental institutions, especially Escondido and the Wilkenson Road Mental Home in Saanich, it is understood the entire mental health service system is under review.

The government's plans, when announced, will likely be in the form of a multi-point program aimed at general improvement in the province's mental institution organization.

Government officials, with long department determines the extent and cost of the recommended improvements.

Scope of the province's mental health services is little realized by most people. It is an immense task being carried out, so far, under difficult conditions.

Mental illness is by far the greatest single cause of hospitalization of the people. There are always five out of every 1,000 persons in a mental hospital.

On March 31, 1951, 6,028 citizens were in the general hospitals of B.C. On that same date, 5,394 were in mental hospitals, with nearly 200 defectives and seniles on the waiting list.

Magnitude of the job the government has in caring for this latter group pointed up by the fact that 25 per cent of the province's civil service is engaged in the care and treatment of the mentally ill.

Bold Thief Loots Clerks' Wallets

Trickery Gets
Pocket of Cash
Behind Counter

A bold thief, described as a "smooth operator," successfully stole about $300 in cash and cheques from employees of a local department store Thursday.

The thief's method of operation tricked over 100 employees, police said.

This is how he worked:

The man walked on to the floor of the store, where workmen are installing escalators, carrying a roll of blueprints and a steel ruler and gazed knowingly about the store.

The clerks thought he was a builder.

The thief then proceeded to measure the space behind the counters and, apparently, when the clerks were not looking, rifled their purses.

The thief also walked into the stock room and emptied the pockets of any coats he found.

A government cheque worth $121.70 was stolen from the coat pocket of Charles A. Hudon, 929 Falkmouth Road.

While taking measurements around the counters, the thief talked to several of the clerks with regard to alterations to the building.

Clerks described the thief as a "smooth talker." They said the man had steel grey hair and was about 60 years of age. He was wearing a blue suit.

Despite the thefts, employees agreed they were lucky the thief did not strike today.

Today is pay day.

Bhag Singh Found Guilty In Rape Case

Bhag Singh, otherwise known as Ram Singh, 830 Queens Avenue, was sentenced Thursday to 2½ years in B.C. penitentiary for rape.

Singh was found guilty of the crime by an Assize Court jury which deliberated 2½ hours. The jury came back once during that time to request further instruction from Mr. Justice A. D. Macfarlane, who presided over the trial.

The judge imposed sentence immediately after the verdict had been delivered.

Singh was charged by R.C.M.P. after parents of a 14-year-old Saanich girl informed police their daughter had been raped last May 24.

THANKSGIVING TURKEY'S CHEAP

Turkey's cheap.

Compared to Christmas-time prices the cost of the big birds is distinctly attractive to housewives and the father who wants to feed and please the family this Thanksgiving.

Dealers explain the price cut by the fact of a hold-over of frozen fowls from last year.

J. B. CLEARHUE NAMED COUNTY COURT JUDGE

Joseph Badenoch Clearhue, prominent Victoria lawyer, has been named judge of the County Court of Victoria.

Word of the appointment came today from the Justice Department at Ottawa.

He succeeds Judge Herbert H. Shandley, who is retiring from the bench for reasons of ill-health. Judge Shandley has presided over the court for 16 years.

Mr. Clearhue is a native Victorian. He is head of the firm Clearhue, Gregory, Grant & Cox.

He was a member of the class at Victoria College, and after receiving his B.A. at McGill in 1911, was selected as a Rhodes Scholar. He attended Oxford University, receiving a B.A. there in 1913 and his B.C.L. in 1914.

During the First World War he served with the Canadian Field Artillery, and afterward was an officer of the reserve army here. He holds the Military Cross.

He was called to the bar in British Columbia in 1916 and was made King's Counselor in 1937.

Mr. Clearhue is a former member of the B.C. Legislature and Victoria City Council. He sat in the Legislature, as a Liberal member for Victoria, from 1920 to 1924. He was an alderman from 1925 to 1928.

He is chairman of the Victoria College Council and has been a governor of U.B.C. since 1935.

He is a Freemason and belongs to the Kiwanis Club.

Colquitz Creek Will Be Bridged

270-Foot Steel Span for Island Highway Will Need 1,500 Feet of Approaches

A 270-foot steel and concrete bridge will be constructed to take Victoria's new Island Highway outlet over the low-lying area between Burnside and Tillicum Roads, it was learned today from the Provincial Public Works Department.

The bridge will carry the highway over the Colquitz River and Interurban Road. It will be in the same general vicinity as the existing C.N.R. bridge.

The span will be 27 feet wide, carrying two lines of traffic and will be built to Trans-Canada Highway specifications. It will have five-foot sidewalks on both sides.

The bridge, designed by works department engineers, is not included in the contract awarded to Campbell, Bennet Ltd. for construction of the first 4.5-mile section of the outlet. Separate bids will be called for construction of the bridge and its approaches.

Approaches to the bridge will stand 1,000 feet north of Tillicum Road and 500 feet south of Burnside Road.

There is good solid rock formation in the low area, providing a solid foundation for the bridge, an official explained.

Another smaller bridge, 167 feet long, will be built over Craigflower Creek, beyond Vickery Road.

It will be the same width as the span closer to the city. Craigflower Creek is crossed in two other places on the new route, but no bridges will be required. Culverts will be used.

Striking Fishermen Offer Cheap Catch

Striking West Coast fishermen will sell salmon direct to the public this week-end to bolster their strike fund.

The fishermen plan to sell their catches from wharves at eight Fraser River ports for about 25 cents a pound, according to the British United Press. The United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union (T.L.C.) went on strike against operators six weeks ago for higher prices for the fall chum salmon run.

Meanwhile, an all-day meeting Thursday between union and operator representatives and Labor Minister Lyle Wicks failed to result in an immediate settlement of the strike.

But further talks are scheduled, and it is understood both factions' representatives are reporting back to their membership on the talks.

Neither side would comment after the parley.

ASK The TIMES

Q—Is the Canadian beaver to be found in its natural habitat on Vancouver Island? F.A.B.

A—Yes. Once they were common in this vicinity, hence Beaver Lake. Now the nearest place to find beaver is the Cowichan River system and suitable water courses north thereof.

Q—A new version of the Holy Bible has just been issued. Does it include the Septuagint? B.G.L.

A—The Septuagint is the oldest Greek translation of the Old Testament, therefore not in any English translation of the Bible. It is believed it was begun in the second century B.C., in Alexandria, Egypt.

Q—Many U.S. presidents have been elected to second terms. Do they always take the vice-president into office with them?

A—Only six vice-presidents have been reelected: Adams, Tompkins, Clinton, Calhoun, Marshall and Garner.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question along to The Times, addressed to "Ask The Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

Danish Wooden Tray Light as a Feather By PENNY SAVER

You'll get the surprise of your young life when you pick up a certain four-ply tray imported from Denmark. By appearances you would think it was going to be quite heavy, but when lifted it's as light as a feather.

Quite an accomplishment on the part of our friends across the sea.

Besides being so conveniently light it is heat and alcohol proof. The light-toned wooden trays sell at $3.65 and $4.25.

In the same wood from Denmark are sets of bowls. The set consists of four individual bowls and one large one. Reasonably priced at $5.50 for the set.

Also in the line of trays, but strictly different, are the novel serving sets designed for use while watching television.

They don't miss a trick, do they?

The gay patterns lithographed on metal come in black or red Chinese motifs.

In this set is one 11x18-inch serving tray, four canape trays and four coasters.

Your television serving set is priced at $1.75.

Here's a tip for all those who want to save pennies, by saving their clothes.

Ink spots are one of the most troublesome problems for everyone from the children at school to Dad at the office.

Ink spots on wool material require different treatment from those on washable fabrics, but they can be removed with careful handling.

First, rinse with cold water to remove as much ink as possible.

If the spot is from washable ink, soak it in cool solution of synthetic detergent and rinse again with clear water. Do not rub the spot, however, since wool fibres are temporarily weakened when wet and are subject to felting.

Ink spots from permanent-type inks may be removed by applying diluted hydrogen peroxide on white or light colored wool, or lemon juice for colored fabrics. Best results will be obtained by placing the spotted material over a small bowl and dripping the liquid through the ink spot. Use an absorbent towel to squeeze excess water from the material and allow to dry without handling.

It's Love and Respect That Children Need Most By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK Ph.D.

Children need love, respect, and a feeling of being wanted more than material possessions. This mother has to choose between the two alternatives:

Q—"I arrived here from England seven years ago to marry and I now have two lovely children. My husband is a good provider but he has a vile temper and uses even viler language. When he is in one of his tempers, he says he wishes the children were dead or in an orphanage. He often strikes me when he is angry and I am terrified of him. I'm taking a job this winter to pay for my passage back to England. I don't want to be weak but I believe it would be better for us to face austerity in England, where we'll have the love of my parents, than to stay here. Am I making a mistake?"

A—"It's never a mistake to break up a marriage after every means have been tried to save it and when there is reason to believe that the children will be psychologically damaged by remaining under the same roof with their father.

It will be some time before you are able to earn enough money to take yourself and your two children abroad. During that time, see if you can't get your husband to change his attitude toward his children and his behavior toward you. Tell him you plan to leave if he refuses to reform.

Nothing is worse for children than to grow up in a home where one parent frankly shows his dislike for them. While they are still little, they are forming the pattern of their personalities. This can be permanently damaged if they feel unloved, unwanted, and constantly terrified.

Absence of material possessions and comfort is surely preferable to what you and your children put up with now. If you can give them a good home with the love and care a child needs by returning to your parents, do it. Don't feel that you're weak and that you've failed. If you are sure you've done all you can to keep your marriage together, failure is due to powers beyond your control.

Official Visit

Mrs. Louise deLuca, Cranbrook, B.C., the provincial president of the Canadian Daughters' League, Assembly No. 5, will make her official visit to Victoria Assembly on Tuesday. A supper will be served in honor of the visitor at 6 o'clock in the clubroom, followed by a meeting at 8.

TODAY'S RECIPE

PUMPKIN CHIFFON PIE

One tablespoon unflavored gelatin, 1/4 cup cold water, 1/2 cup light brown sugar, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons cinnamon, 1/2 to 3/4 teaspoon ginger, 1/2 teaspoon allspice, 1 1/3 cups cooked or canned pumpkin, 3 egg yolks, 1/2 cup milk, 3 egg whites, 1/4 teaspoon cream of tartar, 6 tablespoons fine granulated sugar, 1 baked 9-inch pie shell.

Soak the gelatin in the water. Mix together in a saucepan the brown sugar, salt, cinnamon, ginger, allspice, pumpkin, egg yolks and milk. Bring to a boil over low heat, stirring constantly and boil 1 minute. Add the soaked gelatin and stir until blended. Cool until partially set. Beat until smooth. Beat the egg whites and cream of tartar until they begin to stiffen then gradually beat in the sugar a small amount at a time. Beat until sugar is dissolved. Carefully fold pumpkin mixture into this meringue. Pile filling in baked pie shell. Chill about 2 hours or until set. Serve garnished with whipped cream sprinkled with cinnamon, or garnished with bits of preserved ginger.

Meeting as Usual

The Victoria Business and Professional Women's Club will hold its regular meeting on Thanksgiving Monday night at 8 in the clubroom, 904 Government Street. Following a business session, Miss Echo Lidster will speak on the "4-H Clubs of British Columbia."

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Put a Book on Your Head To Learn Correct Posture

Q—"In a recent column about posture you say to straighten the spine all the way up, pushing toward the ceiling with the top of your head. I do not understand just what you mean by this and am very eager to hold myself correctly."

A—"This will give you the idea. Place a book on top of your head. If you keep it there you will be doing what I mean."

Q—"How can I grow taller?"

A—"You can add a few inches by improving your posture unless it is already perfect, and few persons can boast of that. Simply by straightening the spine and making yourself as tall as possible, you will increase your height."

Q—"I am 13 years old. I am 5 feet 3 inches tall and weigh 113 pounds. My bust measures 32 1/2 inches; waist, 25 1/2 inches. Please tell me what is wrong?"

A—"Nothing that time will not take care of. Your weight is correct and your bust will fill out more as you grow older."

Q—"I am a teenager. Two years ago I weighed 197 pounds and my measurements were: bust 42 inches, waist 36 inches, and hips 45 inches. By carefully watching my diet, no pills or other medicine, I now weigh 145 pounds. I have a large bone structure. My measurements are now as follows: bust 34 inches, waist 26 inches, and hips 37 inches. Please tell me what my correct weight and measurements are."

A. Congratulations. I know that took determination. I imagine you should lose about 10 pounds more. Your hips are a bit too large but I imagine the ratio between hips and bust will take care of itself as the bust develops more.

Q—"I am 15 1/2 years old and 5 feet tall. I weigh 94 pounds. I know I am under-weight but about how much. What's the best way to gain?"

A. You should gain from 10 to 15 pounds, depending on your bony structure. Read tomorrow's column for advice about gaining weight.

Q—"Do facial exercises help get rid of wrinkles?"

A. They do help in that they improve tone. Always apply cold cream before doing these exercises.

Instead of making fancy frost-butter or margarine blended with lings for cakes we use this simple 1/2 cup brown sugar, 1/2 cup trick. Bake your favorite choco-chopped walnuts and three table-late cake in an eight or nine-inch spoons cream. Place about three square pan. Spread the top of inches under the broiler until the warm cake with 1/2 cup soft mixture browns.

Women

Victoria Daily Times FRIDAY, OCTOBER 10, 1953 17

Between Ourselves

By ELIZABETH FORBES

This is the season of the year when active, intelligent women look around for new interests to fill the long winter days and evenings. And nine times out of 10, when they do, it's because they wish to help others. So, they join those groups that have been formed for such a reason.

This year there is a new auxiliary that should fill the need of many Victoria women for some form of service work. It was organized a month ago as an auxiliary to the Family and Children's Service. Mrs. R. D. Harvey is the president and already, there is a representative group of women in the membership.

Following the inaugural meeting, Mrs. Harvey was deluged with telephone calls, offering help in the work of the new auxiliary. A small group of women, meeting in their own homes, wished to do knitting for children; another well known organized group of young women offered to help. Women called, wishing to join the auxiliary.

"It was a revelation," Mrs. Harvey tells you, "you'd be surprised how many people in Victoria are just waiting for the opportunity to assist us."

The work of the Family and Children's Service is so wide and so diversified and the need so great, the auxiliary will be able to use everyone who wishes to help.

The Family and Children's Service has in its care tiny babies in foster homes that need someone to knit and make clothes for them; older children whose wants are even greater. There are elderly people to be visited and helped; unmarried mothers who wish to rehabilitate themselves but have no money or clothing to do so.

In all these needs, and many more, too numerous to list, the new auxiliary hopes to give help, by co-operating with social service workers in the service.

In this wide field there is something to interest every woman. To interest those, too, who perhaps have never joined a women's group before. And for all those women there could be no finer work.

There is a place in this auxiliary, too, for women who have problems of their own. For in helping others, through the Family and Children's Service, it is very easy to find that the same service will quietly advise and help any individual who is confused or in trouble.

The new auxiliary is primarily one of service, and therefore, will not dissipate its energies on too many money-making projects. Already it has been decided to hold only one such affair in a year. Tentative plans were formulated some time ago for the first such event . . . in the Christmas season this year.

Prominent hostesses in Victoria have offered to open their homes decorated in the Yuletide theme for a conducted tour. Next meeting of the new auxiliary is to be held Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock in the board room at Spencerhouse, corner of Cook and Pembroke Streets.

And Mrs. Harvey is extending an invitation to any woman who is interested in service work to attend . . . and to join in this worthwhile effort.

Electoral College Important in U.S.

Final Choice of President Depends Upon Results of Fourth Step in Procedure

By NORMAN ALTSTEDTER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK (CP) — The electoral college system in United States elections makes it possible for a dozen big states to swing a president into office in opposition to the other 36.

The procedure giving this top-sided power is the fourth and final step in U.S. presidential elections. The first three steps are the state primaries where representatives are chosen to attend the national conventions, the conventions where the presidential nominees are picked, and the national election itself Nov. 3.

The Electoral College, though outmoded and the subject of repeated attempts at abolition, in the final constitutional sense chooses the President and vice-president.

STARTED IN 1787

The system was set up in 1787 by the framers of the U.S. constitution who weren't sure that the people had enough education to make a good choice of men to fill the offices of government. So they provided that men known as "electors" be elected to do the choosing. That system worked in effect for only the first five presidential elections, after which the people began voting only for the "electors" who had already pledged themselves in advance to a specific presidential nominee.

The electoral system makes it possible for election of a President who has a minority of popular votes but a majority of electoral votes. But this has happened only twice—in 1876 and 1888. In 1940 Wendell Willkie was only 240,000 votes short of the total made by Franklin D. Roosevelt in New York State but Roosevelt got all New York's 17 electoral votes.

This is the way electoral votes are apportioned: Each state has as many electoral votes as it has members in the Senate and the House of Representatives. Each state has two senators but state representation in the House is proportionate to population. So Nevada, the least-populated state, has three electoral votes—one representative and two senators—while New York, the most populous state, has 45 electoral votes—43 representatives and two senators. New York lost two electoral votes after the 1950 census.

NEED 266 MAJORITY

There are a total of 531 electors since there are 96 senators and 435 members of the House of Representatives. Thus a simple majority of 266 electoral votes is all that is needed to choose a President.

CAREFUL APPROACH

THE DOCTOR ANSWERS

Bell's Palsy Is Not Permanent Affliction

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.

Some things which can happen to human beings are strange indeed, and among these is a condition known as Bell's Palsy. Q.—Please say something about Bell's Palsy, and what is the best means of helping someone so afflicted?—Mrs. F. L. O.

A.—This is usually so condition involving paralysis of the muscles on one side of the face, which comes on rather suddenly without any apparent cause. There is no specific treatment or cure for Bell's Palsy, but most victims recover completely. Sometimes massage of the face and electrical stimulation of the muscles is advised.

Q.—A group of us women were wondering whether hydrochloric acid is necessary to life. Just what does it do in the stomach? Is cancer connected with a lack of it?—Reader.

A.—Normally certain cells in the stomach produce hydrochloric acid, which helps to make up the digestive juices and aids in the processes of digestion. Apparently, some people can get along without it, or with very small quantities. Cancer of the stomach is usually accompanied by absence of hydrochloric acid, but absence of hydrochloric acid can occur in other conditions as well, such as pernicious anemia.

Q.—I am 55 years old and have been troubled the last year with water accumulation in the sacs surrounding the stomach and intestines. I have had three drainings already; the last time one-half gallon was removed. Is there anything that can be done to prevent its recurrence?—Mrs. C.

A.—There are several possible causes for the accumulation of fluid in the abdominal cavity. You are unfortunate to have this difficulty, but it is impossible to say whether anything can be done to prevent its recurrence without knowing what the cause was in the particular patient. In general, the possibility of preventing its recurrence is not as promising as one could hope.

Q.—I am a teen-ager, and would like to know if white petroleum jelly used on burns and minor cuts could be used as a hair tonic?—C. H.

A.—I can see no reason why this mild preparation should produce any harm to the normal scalp.

Q.—Is there any truth to the claim that lying in a reclining position with the head below the feet aids in rejuvenating the face muscles?—J. L.

A.—It seems extremely doubtful.

Q.—Two years ago I was operated on for strangulated hernia. After the operation I had pneumonia and a short time later the hernia returned in the same spot. Is it possible to have another strangulated one?—R. J. C.

A.—It is had luck that the hernia came back. It is possible to have another strangulated hernia, though this seems unlikely.

PUBLIC TRANSPORT
KARACHI (CP)—Private road transport services are being nationalized in West Pakistan, where the railways are owned by the government. It was considered that nationalization was necessary to establish proper co-ordination between road and rail services.

ISLAND DIGEST

NANAIMO, Oct. 10.—Trustee George Darling has criticized the department of education for rejecting support of such projects as providing running water in laboratories, rewiring of certain school rooms for better lighting, and removing a potentially dangerous hump in a road near the new senior high school.

NANAIMO, Oct. 10.—A. Timms, United Kingdom trade commissioner to Canada, will be chief speaker at the October 30 meeting of the Chamber of Commerce.

COMOX, Oct. 10.—Federal grants to help with the cost of increasing hospital accommodation at St. Joseph's Hospital here has been approved. National Health and Welfare Minister Paul Martin announced in Ottawa today.

Space formerly used as a dining room will be used to accommodate four extra patients. Federal aid will amount to $1,500, or one-third the cost of the work.

DUNCAN, Oct. 10.—New Duncan and District branch of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind has elected Air Marshal

MARCIANO BEST OF PRESENT CROP—DEMPSEY

TORONTO, Oct. 8 (BUP).—Former heavyweight champion Jack Dempsey says the present "titleholder" Rocky Marciano doesn't know too much about boxing.

But with the sad state of the current heavyweight scheme, the Manassa Mauler says "I still can't see anyone licking him for two or three years."

"Right now, there's no one for him to fight," Dempsey figures. And he predicts it will take two or three years to find and develop someone that can take Marciano.

TIME OUT! By Jeff Keate

"Monthly Pains" Halted or strikingly relieved

In 3 out of 4 cases in test by doctors

* Chances are you're putting up unnecessarily with the functionally-caused pains, cramps and weak, "no good" feelings of menstruation!

For, in actual tests by doctors, Lydia Pinkham's Compound brought complete or striking relief from such distress in 3 out of 4 of the cases!

Lydia Pinkham's is modern in its action! Get Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—or new, improved Tablets—and see if you don't get relief... see if you don't feel better during your period. See if you don't have the same experience as thousands who have benefited!

And remember—Lydia Pinkham's is grand for those "hot flashes" and other distress of change of life!

It has a quieting effect on uterine contractions that often cause menstrual pain!

Hunters Should First Learn To Be Sportsmen

MAROA, Ill., Oct. 10 (AP).—Oscar, a stuffed pheasant, this week is a battered and broken bird because some 200 hunters were trigger-happy poor sports and law violators.

Herbert O. Marlow, a farmer and amateur taxidermist, put Oscar in his fenced bean field about 100 feet from a paved road when the hunting season opened.

Then Marlow sat back to observe through the picture window of his house.

Of about 200 hunters whose attentions were attracted by the stuffed bird, only two asked

Marlow's permission to shoot on his farm.

The rest stopped their automobiles and blazed away at the standing bird.

Marlow reported almost all of them violated three laws.

They shot from the highway which is prohibited; failed to request permission required by law for hunting on private property; and carried their guns loaded in their cars.

And says Marlow, few of the hunters followed the basic rule of sportsmanship in hunting gamebirds—flushing the quarry into flight.

Conviction of Chinese Upheld by High Court

VANCOUVER, Oct. 10 (BUP).—The Supreme Court Thursday upheld the conviction of Gunn Louie, Vancouver Chinese merchant, of a foreign exchange regulations infraction. Louie was charged with failing to declare $6,471 which he is alleged to have deposited in a Seattle bank.

Louie was convicted earlier this year in County Court and fined $1,200.

SMOKIES WIN

TRAIL, B.C., Oct. 10 (CP).—The B.C. champion Trail Smoke Eaters, flashing top pre-season form, coasted to a 11-6 victory over Nelson Maple Leafs in an exhibition tilt here Thursday night.

STUDY ANCIENTS

STOCKHOLM (CP).—A Swedish archaeological expedition is leaving for three months in Syria to study ancient sites, including Quadesh where Rameses II defeated the Barbarians in 1288 B.C.

Olympic Stars Shine in Tokyo

TOKYO, Oct. 10 (AP).—Marjorie Jackson, Australia's Olympic sprint champion, won again Thursday in her 100-metre dash specialty at an invitation track and field meet in Tokyo.

Her winning time was 11.9 seconds.

Three other visiting Olympians won with ease. Jamaica's Herb McKenley, record-breaking quarter-miler, sped 100 metres in 10.6.

The Brazilian hop-step and jumper, A. F. De Silva, leaped 15.29 metres and German distance ace, Herbert Schade, covered 5,000 metres in 16:31.4.

Diamond Stars Off to Honolulu

NEW YORK, Oct. 10 (AP).—Five major league baseball players left by air Thursday for Honolulu where they will take part in a six-game series with the Hawaiian champions during a 10-day national holiday, beginning October 10.

The team will be known as the Ed Lopat all-stars. Besides Lopat, leaving today were his New York Yankee battery mate, Yogi Berra; Peewee Reese, Brooklyn shortstop; Robin Roberts, pitcher for Philadelphia Phillies; and Nelson Fox, Chicago White Sox second baseman.

George Handicap Meet Continues

Second Flight—Mrs. R. Dickinson vs. Miss V. Orenden, 10:50; Miss M. Bateman vs. Miss C. Stevenson, 10:55.

Third Flight—Miss N. Nicholls vs. Miss A. Underhill, 11; Mrs. J. Bailey vs. Miss K. Comerford, 11:05.

THANKSGIVING TURKEY DONOR HIDES IDENTITY

An anonymous donation of 300 pounds of turkey has been made to the surplus food stall in the Public Market for distribution Saturday, Mrs. Barbara Green, stall operator, said on Thursday.

Reading in the newspapers of the free food stall for Victoria's needy, a South American visitor offered the turkeys.

The fowl—about 35—will be distributed on the basis of need, Mrs. Green said. The stall opens at 9 a.m. for receipt and packaging of goods and from 2 to 4 p.m. for distribution. Donors to the stall are asked to telephone G 3720.

'Curtain Up' Title Of York Theatre's First Performance

"Curtain Up" is the timely title of the York Theatre Company's opening play, when the curtain rises on their initial effort, Oct. 16, directors announced Thursday.

The date has been changed from Oct. 17, but there has been no change in the newly-formed group's plan to entertain patients from the Veterans' Hospital at a dress rehearsal Oct. 15. The title,

Father Not Forgotten In Parentcraft Class

A new series in the popular parentcraft classes sponsored by the Victorian Order of Nurses will get under way at the Y.W.C.A. Tuesday afternoon at 2.

There are 10 lectures in all for mothers-to-be, with father-to-be participating in the last three.

"We like to give pre-natal instruction to supplement teachings of doctors and to dispel any fears the girls may harbor about having their first baby," said Miss Marjorie Baird, district supervisor of the V.O.N.

"The classes are designed to encourage the girls to live as normally as possible during pregnancy."

Fathers are also urged to take an active interest, for in the parentcraft classes they contend: "Having a baby is no longer just a mother's job—it's a family affair."

The V.O.N. parentcraft class too, has been changed from "On Monday Next." "Curtain Up" is an alternative title.

The play, first by the recently-formed professional company, is a three-act comedy telling of the trials of a theatre company to be ready for opening night.

VICTORIA, B.C., FRIDAY, OCTOBER 10, 1952—26 PAGES

PRICE: 7 CENTS
SATURDAY, 10 CENTSSpecial
P.O.W.
Pay SetHong Kong Vets
To Get $1,400

OTTAWA, Oct. 10 (CP).—The government today announced an immediate $1-a-day maltreatment award to roughly 2,000 Canadians for each day they were enemy prisoners in the Second World War.

The awards do not affect the great majority of Canadian prisoners-of-war who fell into German hands. They go mainly to about 1,400 survivors of the Hong Kong siege of 1941 who will get cheques of $1,350 to $1,400 within the next few weeks.

(What Victoria war prisoners will do with their bonus cheques is told in story on Page 15.)

They embrace the Hong Kong survivors, Canadian civilians interned by the Japanese and relatively few Canadians who were imprisoned by Nazi organizations such as the Gestapo and S.S.

The money will come out of a $10,000,000 fund built up of seized German and Japanese assets and reparations from those countries.

Prime Minister St. Laurent, in announcing the awards, said a commission will shortly be set up to rule on other claims by Canadians.

These are expected to number in the thousands. They range from claims for losses of property in such tragedies as the 1939 sinking of the liner Athenia to claims by civilians imprisoned by the Japanese who have spent their own money regaining their health in hospital and under medical care since being returned to Canada.

WIDOWS TO COLLECT

Widows of Hong Kong veterans who died in prison camp or since being returned to Canada will have a right to claim. Some may get the full $1,350 to $1,400 their husbands would have got. Others, now drawing pension, would get less.

Those who were held in regular German P.O.W. camps will be able to claim excessive maltreatment and, if their claims are upheld, will be entitled to some reimbursement too.

An example here might be a survivor of the 1942 Dieppe raid who suffered from being shackled by the Germans for some time after being taken prisoner.

Payment to former members of the armed forces will commence not later than Oct. 15. Payments to civilians will be made as soon as they have established the necessary facts, particularly with reference to their nationality and the duration of internment.

United States citizens in similar positions have received payment of $1 a day. Britons will get about three cents—or an average total of about $60.

Awaiting Evacuation

Clothes ripped to shreds, two wounds in left arm, Marine PFC. McRee Starnes of Waxham, N.C., sits on a hospital cot in forward aid station awaiting evacuation after being brought back from violent action on Korea front. Screaming Chinese Communists smashed at United Nations lines across most of the battlefield, seizing seven positions in the past two days. (NEA Telephoto.)

THE CAINE MUTINY

Best Selling Novel
To Appear in Times

By special arrangement with the Doubleday syndicate of New York, the Victoria Daily Times has secured first newspaper rights, exclusive in this area, to the best-selling novel "The Caine Mutiny" by Herman Wouk.

The vivid navy story, which has been at the top of the New York Times' best-seller list for 77 straight weeks, will start running in The Times Saturday, October 18.

"The Caine Mutiny," which details the troubles of a destroyer-minesweeper's crew with a psychotic captain, has been hailed as "the greatest navy story to come out of the Second World War." It has out-sold the fine British navy story, "The Cruel Sea."

United States citizens in similar positions have received payment of $1 a day. Britons will get about three cents—or an average total of about $60.

HERMAN WOUK

testing-place of the Pacific war. Author Wouk (pronounced Woke) at 37 has had a remarkable career. At Columbia University he edited the humor magazine, went on to become a comedy writer for Fred Allen for five years.

During sea service in the Pacific, he wrote "Aurora Dawn," which became a Book-of-the-Month choice in 1946. In 1948 came "City Boy," a Family Book Club choice. In the same year, Wouk wrote "Slattery's Hurricane," a story of Navy weather fliers, which was made into a movie.

In 1949 his play "The Traitor" was produced on Broadway with Lee Tracy and Walter Hampden. At present he is working on another play, "Modern Primitive," and an untitled novel, a love story set in Manhattan.

In 1950 the young author received the greatest accolade of all when "The Caine Mutiny" was awarded a Pulitzer Prize as "the most distinguished novel of the year."

An interesting sidelight is that Wouk proved, in his prize-winning novel, that a war book could be written without the profanity characterizing other best-selling service stories. His dialogue in "The Caine Mutiny" is realistic, and hard-hitting, but without smut. Wouk said before he wrote the novel that it could be done. He has more than proved his point, as 400,000 purchasers of the novel testify.

VICTORIA PLAN
SHELVED BY MUNICIPALITIES

VERNON, B.C., Oct. 10 (CP).—A Victoria proposal that conciliation board decisions be made binding on police and fire departments was shelved gingerly by the Union of British Columbia Municipalities today.

The U.B.C.M. sent the resolution to the incoming executive to study and report back. Mayor Frank Goldsborough of North Vancouver, president of the U.B.C.M., pledged that no action would be taken until the 12 municipalities and interested labor groups have had an opportunity to go into it.

The Victoria proposal named police and fire departments, but also would impinge upon any other groups having a no-strike clause in their contract. Labor groups and municipalities both feared they would lose bargaining rights.

Police and fire department representatives have been watching the resolution closely throughout the two days of the convention. About 12 municipalities are directly affected.

PER DIEM PAYMENTS
In other resolutions today the U.B.C.M. asked the government to eliminate per diem payments made by municipalities for every hospital patient; requested government assistance for bedside nursing services as a means of reducing hospital insurance costs; and called for action to prevent pollution of water supplies by mining, logging and other operations.

The union will continue to press the provincial government for an 80-20 split on the cost of education.

Decision of a special convention in February, which offered to give up 80 per cent of the municipal share of the sales tax if the government would take over 80 per cent of education, was reaffirmed by the U.B.C.M. convention today.

Its adoption overrode four other education cost resolutions listed for the convention, and settled in short order a question expected to take up a major part of discussion time.

VICE-REGENT NO BETTER;
MAY BE HOSPITALIZED

CALGARY, Oct. 10 (CP).—Governor-General Vincent Massey today was reported "no better than he was last night."

The report came from Dr. E. P. Scarlett of Calgary who is attending the Governor-General aboard the vice-regal party's private train.

Mr. Massey suffered a severe chill Thursday and was forced to cancel entire plans for his two-day visit to Calgary. He is suffering from a "severe" throat infection.

It was hoped Mr. Massey would be able to keep this appointment Saturday.

Victoria citizens who wish to be presented to Governor-General Vincent Massey will have the opportunity during his one-day visit here Oct. 15.

Following his welcome by Premier W. A. C. Bennett at the Legislative Buildings, he will receive the general public. Public entrance will be through the east door of the buildings, opposite the museum entrance, and the reception will be from 3.45 to 4.35 p.m.

JUDGE JUSTIFIES
CONTEMPT CHARGE

Chief Justice Farris' Action Defended
In Judge Bird's Finding in Poje Case

Chief Justice Wendell B. Farris, of B.C.'s Supreme Court, was perfectly within his right to proceed with contempt of court proceedings against Tony Poje and other I.W.A. members who ignored a court injunction order to cease picketing of the Nanaimo Assembly Wharf during the summer lumber strike.

This is the view of Mr. Justice H. I. Bird, of B.C. Appeal Court, who, with Mr. Justice Sidney Smith, turned down an appeal by I.W.A. counsel to have Chief Justice Farris' judgment set aside, and his conviction of Poje and 14 others quashed.

Mr. Justice Bird's reasons for judgment were handed down today. Mr. Justice Smith has yet to file his.

Mr. Justice Bird took a different view from Mr. Justice C.

H. O'Halloran, who dissented from the majority decision. Justice O'Halloran's reasons were published Thursday. He held the Chief Justice should not have proceeded with the contempt charges.

Mr. Justice Bird, however, said of the Chief Justice:

Screaming Chinese Reds
Fail to Stop Koreans

SEOUL, Korea, Oct. 10 (AP).—A human sea of fanatical Chinese Reds pushed South Korean soldiers off White Horse Mountain tonight but the weary U.N. troops scrambled right back to the top and battled the Reds hand to hand in a drenching rain.

The wild fighting broke off at 9 p.m. with the Chinese in control. The South Koreans hugged the south slope 150 yards from the top.

Earlier reports said a "hilltop brawl" swirled around the peak in almost pitch darkness. Reds and South Koreans fought it out with grenades, rifle butts and bayonets.

It was the seventh time today that savage close-in fighting has swept across the rubble's crest of the vital peak.

A pelting rain started just after dark. It soaked the weary soldiers who have been fighting continuously more than four days.

A front-line officer said it was so dark on the crest that the Republic of Korea troops had to grope their way forward to close with the Reds.

He said the South Koreans had one simple rule for fighting in the dark: If they felt a shaved head in the hand-to-hand fighting they knew it must belong to a Chinese. That was all the identification they wanted.

BIG GUNS SILENT
The officer said the only sounds from the hilltop were "the screams when someone is knifed and the moans of the wounded." Because of the darkness, the big guns of both sides were silent.

The South Koreans launched their attack from a line about 100 yards below the crest at 8.30 p.m. They apparently ran head-on into the Chinese, who were pushing their way slowly forward.

The South Koreans stormed back to the crest less than two hours after a fresh battalion (about 750) of screaming Chinese drove them from the top to the base of the hill mass.

The Chinese surged forward in a human sea attack. The officer said they "stormed the north slope with bayonets, fists, grenades and dirty words."
